Breaking Into County Jail is Tough Job, Grand Jurors Find When Key Disappears

IF the Marion county jail is as hard to break out of as it to break into it is almost impregnable so far as a jail delivery is concerned

This is the decision of 15 grand jurors, a sheriff and a former sheriff who worked for better than a half hour yesterday afternoon in a fruitless effort to gain entrance to the jail A lost key and a foolproof padlock that couldn't be budged with a sledge or hack saw proved the enigma of the group

The loss of the key was discovered shortly after noon when Sheriff John J Francis, who took over the duties of the office yesterday morning attempted to open the one of the three doors to the jail to allow the members of the grand jury to make their customary inspection of the prisoners quarters A search of the sheriff's residence while the grand jurors patiently waited failed to reveal the key

A call was made for James A Deal who had turned over the office to Francis but he could not locate the key among any of his possessions

A sledge and a hacksaw were next enlisted in an effort to gain entrance to the jail The sledge put a few dents in the lock but did nothing more The saw failed even to scratch the hard surface of the lock heap

In the meantime the grand jury members were called back to the courtroom to complete their deliberations The sawing and sledging continued but the

POSTPONE GAS RATE HEARING UNTIL JAN. 22

State Engineers Not Adequately Prepared for Giving of Testimony

With little if anything done at the first day of hearing, the Logan Gas case now being bitterly contested before the state utilities commission at Columbus today had been postponed until Jan 22 when a rehearing will begin

Reason for the postponement was not given but at the hearing yesterday it was shown by cross examination of state engineers, that they were somewhat inadequately prepared for giving testimony on the witness stand

Both the company and the various municipalities of the state are protesting the tentative valuation of the used and useful properties of the gas company for rate making purposes The valuation set by the utilities commission was $10,769,000 The company claims that its used and useful properties are worth twice that amount and seek at least a $20,000,000 valuation The municipalities claim that this amount set by the commission is excessive for rate making purposes

The case, which has been fought over a period of four or five years, still remains hanging over the head unless some unforseen development on the part of the utilities commission or the protesting cities develop

Freeman Eagleson, Columbus attorney, is leading the fight on the part of the company, and Grant E Mouser Jr Marion is heading the protest actions of the Ohio non-ordinance cities which are involved

WITCHCRAFT ANGLE ENTERS TESTIMONY

Witness Injects Issue into Murder Trial at York, Pa.

COURTHOUSE YORK Pa Jan 8—Witchcraft and a black magic as a murder motive will not down at the trial of the mysterious John M Blymyer alleged 'pow-wow doctor' for the brutal slaying of Nelson D Rehmeyer 60 year old farmer recluse whom he believed to be a 'witch' In spite of efforts to keep pedal that phase of the case

John Blymyer put in court a strange mystic figure handled by testimony as the man who said after the killing of Rehmeyer I got the witch—I'm the one to blame He sat in the prisoner's dock a tall lean, blonde man of 32 with a pale face, a pointed inquiring nose and a secretive demeanor silently watching every move in the courtroom He is charged with having gone to the old farmer's home in the dead of night accompanied by Wilbert Hess, 18 and John Curry, 15 and bludgeoned him to death when he resisted an attempt to cut a lock from his hair Blymyer wanted the lock of hair to 'break an evil spell cast by the witch

All references to witchcraft were studiously avoided by both state and defense during the first day of the trial until the last five minutes of the session Then Clayton G Hess, brother of Wilbur Hess who is jointly indicted with Blymer and John Curry, suddenly blurted out the 'witch angle'

Blymer told me the day after the killing of Rehmeyer that he got the man—the witch and that he alone was to blame for what had happened' Hess testified

Court was then adjourned and it was indicated that Hess would be cross-examined today

AMEND PENCE ACT, DONAHEY TELLS SOLONS

Retiring Governor Sends His Final Message to State Legislature

ISSUES WARNING

Proposals on "Blue-Sky" Laws Should Be Carefully Considered, He Says

COLUMBUS Jan 8—Recommending amendment of the Pence act which provides for state regulation of public utilities and warning the solons to consider carefully all proposals to amend Ohio's 'blue-sky' laws Gov. Vic Donahey today sent his final message to the state legislature

Donahey also urged the legislators to make "proper provision for a larger personnel and more suitable quarters" for the state department of industrial relations

Enactment of legislation relieving the governor of a considerable portion of the work of disposing of applications for parole of prisoners was recommended He favored passage of a law authorizing parole of liquor law violators from county workhouses by local authorities Donahey requested enactment of a measure penalizing any attorney, lobbyist or other person who solicits or collects fees

Calls for Highway Safety

Attention of the solons should also be directed to the enactment of legislation insuring greater safety on the highways Donahey declared

Other recommendations contained in the governor's message are provide full maintenance for the governor's mansion, arrange for fitting participation by the state of Ohio in the sesqui centennial anniversary of the conquest of the northwest territory, scheduled to take place next summer at Vincennes Indiana, improve conditions at the Ohio Soldiers' & Sailors' Orphans' home Xenia,

Governor Donahey explained that he had drawn the attention of the solons to these subjects with a view to increased efficiency of the state government the promotion of the public welfare and for the sake of facilitating the task of succeeding chief executives

Urges Cooperation

The governor informed the legislators that he will submit to them soon a proposed state budget for all departments of government, a statement of the balance in the state treasury and an estimate of anticipated revenues,

"I congratulate you upon your opportunity to serve the state and hope you will cooperate harmoniously with the new chief executive,' Donahey's message read 'During the period of your deliberations, the legislative and executive branches of government should labor shoulder to shoulder with an eye single to the high purpose of advancing in every consistent way the welfare, peace and safety of the people of Ohio

'No public utility company should be permitted to institute the collection of any increased rate, or charge, except upon approval of the public utilities commission' said Donahey, recommending amendment of the Pence act

Ohio Pence Provisions

At the present time, the commission may, upon the filing of a schedule which provides for an increase in rates, suspend the same, but not for a longer period than 120 days from the time when such schedule was filed,' the governor continued 'If hearings thereon are not concluded within the period of suspension the said rates automatically become effective at the end of said period of suspension and the public utility filing with the commission a bond, or other security to the satisfaction of the commission, securing and guaranteeing repayment, with interest of such increased rates as may be found to be unreasonable and excessive, may, at once, enforce the proposed rate

While the law as at present constituted, is objectionable, since it is manifestly unfair to the public, the law should not be so changed as to create a situation which would be, under emergency circumstances, unfair to companies which furnish public service,' Donahey said

Consider Circumstances

'The public utilities commission should be granted authority, after preliminary hearing, to determine whether there is any probability of confiscation under existing rates and if, in the judgment of that body, there appears no immediate occasion for an advance in rates, as proposed, the existing rates should be collected until final disposition can be made of the case. Should the commission deem increases immediately necessary, collections should be made under bond as at present provided

"The consolidation of cases affecting many cities and communities situated in widely different parts of

Visitors from 30 Nations Will View Marion Exhibits at Road Show in Cleveland

Program for 26th Annual Convention Said To Be Most Elaborate In History; 100 or More Expected To Attend from Marion County

When Marion industrial concerns place their products on exhibition at the twenty-sixth annual convention and road show of the American Road Builders' association in Cleveland, Jan. 14, their displays will be seen by road builders and other visitors from 30 nations of the world, according to announcement of plans for the event received here today from Charles M. Upham, association secretary-director.

The show will continue through Jan. 18 and is to be attended by 100 or more factory men, public officials and contractors from Marion county.

The representatives from foreign countries will join with road builders from Canada, Mexico, Pan America and every state in the union, to swell the attendance to a new high mark of 30,000, according to registration figures.

Rooms in Cleveland hotels are being assigned rapidly, as reservations pour in to the convention rooming committee, and the Cleveland chamber of commerce convention board.

Best Ever, Is Report

From a technical and educational standpoint, the convention will offer the best program in the association's history, Upham declared, and a committee of Clevelanders has planned a full program of lighter entertainment for delegates and road show visitors.

The association's membership, classified as city officials, county highway officials, engineers, contractors or constructors, manufacturers and Pan Americans, will convene in that manner, with certain days and meetings set apart for the special groups.

The road show, for which some 500 car loads of machinery and materials to be shown by more than 400 exhibitors are now enroute to Cleveland, will offer the greatest demonstration of road building machinery, materials and methods in the world. Every foot of available display space, utilizing eight acres in public hall, the hall annex and Central armory, is assigned, according to Director Upham, and a number of would-be exhibitors have been turned away.

Week's Program

The convention week will start Monday with the entire day devoted to the various exhibits. In addition to equipment and materials for road-building, there will be instructive exhibits by the United States Bureau of Public Roads, the American Association of State Highway Officials, the federal department of commerce, several states and Pan American countries.

The city officials' group, which was formed in Cleveland one year ago, will hold its first annual meeting Tuesday. Capt. H. C. Whitehurst, division president and assistant to engineer commissioner, Washington, D. C., will preside.

The Tuesday morning general session will open the convention program with an address of welcome to Cleveland by Mayor John D. Marshall. The response will come from Col. R. Keith Compton, president of the American Road Builders' Association and Director of Public Works, Richmond Va. City Manager Wm R. Hopkins of Cleveland will discuss the trend of city government. He is a nationally known authority on the city manager plan. The contractors' group will meet Tuesday afternoon.

Important Sessions

The Pan American sessions Wednesday will be eagerly watched by all the Southern American nations, as the Pan American delegates plan to decide on a permanent location for the Pan American highway which already is one-half constructed through Mexico, and all but 40 miles in Guatemala.

The engineers' group will meet Wednesday afternoon, and the contractors will hold their second session. The county highway officials' group will hold forth Thursday, with its president, Thomas J. Wasser, Jersey City, N. J., in charge. The manufacturers will also meet Thursday morning.

Thomas H. McDonald, chief of United States Bureau of Public Roads, will share honors with Senor Dubois of Mexico in presiding over the Pan American sessions. A number of special receptions, teas and social honors will go to the foreign delegates while in Cleveland. Senator-elect John G. Townsend, former governor of Delaware, will speak at the Road Builders' annual banquet for 1,000 guests Wednesday evening at the Hollenden Hotel. The Hollenden and the Public Auditorium will house all the meetings and social affairs of the week.

Zellner carries a complete miniature lighting system with him and has made a study of the effects of different lights upon different costumes and characters.

The entertainment is billed as "Flashes from Life and Literature," and presents 16 characterizations in full costume, requiring an hour and a half for presentation. A sense of dramatic values, together with years of research and authoritative study of the physical and mental characteristics of the people he portrays, have made it possible for Zellner to present them with faithful correctness to the most minute detail.

On Jan. 15, Zellner will entertain the High School Teachers Federation of Columbus with the program which he is to present here Thursday night.

KILLS PAIN

—the public now demands

375,000

Jars of Vicks daily

Compared with 1918, this epidemic, so far, is mild; and yet, in spite of vastly increased capacity, the Vicks Laboratories are once more operating night and day to meet the emergency demand for more and more Vicks VapoRub. Over 375,000 jars are now being produced daily.

approved method of using Vicks for FLU

1. AS A PREVENTIVE

Several times a day, insert Vicks up the nostrils. Also melt a little night and morning in a bowl of boiling water and inhale the steaming medicated vapors. This helps to ward off germ-infection.

2. IF A COLD STARTS

If possible, go home and go to bed. Take a laxative and a hot lemonade. Apply hot, wet towels over throat and chest until the skin is thoroughly reddened. Then rub vigorously with Vicks. Spread on thickly and cover with warm flannel. Leave the bed-covering loose, so that the vapors, released by the body-warmth, may be freely inhaled. At the same time, Vicks also acts through the skin like a poultice.

Repeat this treatment every four hours, eat lightly, and stay in bed until the cold is broken. Complete rest helps the body throw off the cold more quickly.

3. AFTER A FLU ATTACK

Physicians advise that the chief danger in this epidemic is after influenza. Then, more than ever, colds, attacking the weakened system, may lead to bronchitis, sinus-trouble or pneumonia. This is especially true of children or old folks.

Heed even the slightest cold as a danger signal. Vicks is especially valuable here, because it is applied externally, and so can be used freely, as often as needed, without upsetting delicate digestions, as too much "dosing" is apt to do.

Calendar Analysis

THE calendar fan is having his inning in Marion these days.

One of them came to the front shortly after the start of the new year with an essay of data gleaned from a 1929 issue of Father Time's official schedule. Without going to the trouble of verifying the information, its calendar comments and statistics are reproduced herewith:

Those persons who draw their pay on Tuesday will find this year's calendar highly satisfactory, for there are five months which have five Tuesdays each. These months are January, April, July, October and December.

There is also a fairly convenient arrangement for those who get paid on Monday, Friday and Saturday. There are five Mondays in April, July, September and December. Friday is listed five times in March, June, August and November, while Saturday, which is payday for probably the largest percentage of the population, also has five calendar assignments in March, June, August and November.

March, June, September and December are the months when those religiously inclined will enjoy their greatest privileges, each of these months having five Sundays.

There are two Fridays in the year which unite with the 13th day of the month to form a double hoodoo. One is in September and the other is December.

• • •

Variety of Offerings

THINGS of every description clothe the windows of Marion stores since the grand cleaning out after Christmas. In passing down one street we see blankets of beautiful colors and designs, coats on sale at remarkably low prices, hot water bottles, diamonds with a whole year to pay for them, new spring hats trimmed with straw, more blankets, little tin buckets with "Recipes" painted on the sides, striped material for spring dresses, noise-makers for parties, cough medicine, and more hot water bottles, canes and derbies that no one wears now, purple bathrobes, stationery and toilet articles left over from Christmas and now on sale. Take your choice.

• • •

Delayed Payments

PAYMENT of bills is not an exceptionally popular pastime with many Marion citizens, according to experience related by heads of various business concerns and other persons who face the task of extracting coin from debtors at certain intervals throughout the year.

Even those plentifully provided with money are said to delay settlement of accounts until the last possible moment.

The tendency to "put-it-off" until the final gong is about ready to sound was in evidence recently during the annual sale of automobile license tags at the Marion Auto club office.

Although warned weeks in advance that 1929 tags would be passe after Jan. 1, several thousand local automobile owners wited until the final week of the year to purchase their new plates.

Some failed to put in their appearance even at that late date and consequently found it necessary to leave their gas buggies in storage after the new year dawned.

While some delayed for the very good reason that their pocketbooks had developed an aching void, it is an unexplainable fact that the majority could have bought their plates early in December as easily as at the close.

The same situation prevails in tax-paying and in settlement of water, gas, light and telephone bills. Throngs holds on to their money until the final date of settlement arrives and then rush to the cashier's window to stand in line for an hour or so and go through the experience of having their shins barked and their corns roughly massaged.

Looking Forward

SIGNS of spring are at hand, even though winter has just arrived. Windows in some uptown stores are featuring spring hats with straw ornaments on them. Several are decorated with Valentines. But, when one really stops to think of it, spring isn't far away. Valentine day is about a month away, and with valentine day gone, we have nothing to look forward to but Easter and the students' spring vacation. Nothing like looking ahead!

• • •

Watch Your Step

THE season for "falls" has arrived. In fact, it has already started. Due to a little puddle of water frozen solid, and a thin skiff of snow to cover it, a Marion man holds the championship for being the first one to fall victim to the hazards of pedestrianism at this time of the year. He was walking before the wind down Main st., while winter's blasts were raging several days ago when he slipped on the bit of ice. Unable to overcome the law of gravity, one foot flew out from under him and gracefully ascended to the sky, and the other, not to be left behind, climbed, also. The man was left in a terrible position. One must give him credit, though. No words were audible.

Employment Problem

TELEPHONE calls. Newspapers get lots of them. Some of them, in fact quite a few, are call-downs.

Many deal with strange subjects and come from strange people. The newspaper worker must be prepared for almost any sort of telephone message.

One came in to this office yesterday. It was a woman's voice and she was not inclined to disclose her identity. Not that she was saying anything or asking anything of a questionable nature.

She brought up something that may be of interest to public welfare workers.

Women who are deserted by their husbands and left with families of children to care for are at a greater disadvantage than women widowed by the death of their husbands, according to the one who telephoned The Star to express her views.

"I thought this would furnish you with an idea to write about," she said. "It should be written up for the benefit of these abandoned women and children."

These unfortunate wives and mothers, forced to seek means of earning a livelihood, frequently find serious obstacles confronting them, the telephone informant related. When prospective employers find that there have been domestic difficulties, even though the wife may not be in the least at fault, they decide that there is no work for her.

"The woman left a widow by death has no difficulty in getting employment," so the one telephoning declared. "Yet she is no more entitled to help than the woman who has been deserted. It is for that unfortunate I am making this plea."

Newspapers are always hearing something new in the way of humanity's problems. This, apparently, is one of them.

It is thought by some that a little sowing of wild oats is salutary; but it takes an exceedingly small crop of oats to suffice.

A new camera dispenses with films or plates and takes pictures on sensitized cards that are inserted through a light proof sleeve.

Acid Stomach

Excess acid is the common cause of indigestion. It results in pain and sourness about two hours after eating. The quick corrective is an alkali which neutralizes acid. The best corrective is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

One spoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia neutralizes instantly many times its volume in acid. It is harmless and tasteless and its action is quick. You will never rely on crude methods, never continue to suffer, when you learn how quickly, how pleasantly this premier method acts. Please let it show you—now.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drugstore.

"I know an easy way to keep from getting fat..... Light a Lucky instead of eating sweets."
Nazimova
Nazimova
Famous Stage Star

THE modern way to diet! Light a Lucky when fattening sweets tempt you. That's what thousands of lovely women are doing—successfully. The delicately toasted flavor of Luckies makes them a delightful alternative for fattening sweets. Toasting does it. Toasting removes the impurities and improves the flavor of the finest tobacco. That's why folks say: "It's good to smoke Luckies."

Men who pride themselves on keeping fit discovered this long ago. They know that Luckies steady their nerves and do not impair their physical condition—many prominent athletes have testified to this fact. They discovered, too, that Luckies don't irritate the throat—a fact subscribed to by 20,679 physicians.

A reasonable proportion of sugar in the diet is recommended, but the authorities are overwhelming that too many fattening sweets are harmful and that too many such are eaten by the American people. So, for moderation's sake we say:—

"REACH FOR A LUCKY INSTEAD OF A SWEET."

Who's Your Grocer?

Not a personal question, but one which should give you deep study. Are you unthoughtfully trading at foreign controlled concerns, who send your money out of town the same day you spend it, or are you patronizing home industries, whose monies go into the county and city treasuries, pay salaries, build schools, churches and public institutions, pave streets, contribute to our Community Chest, without getting "authorization" from out-of-town millionaires, who sometimes do and sometimes don't? Are you with the great mass of people, who "Buy in Marion" and who are always willing to help boost our city, and make it a better and more pleasant place to live? If so, remember this cannot be done by having your money sent out of town. Help Marion grow by trading at a Serv-U-Wel Market and keep the money at home.

See Thrilling Fight for Salvation Army's 'Throne'

Leaders Uneasy as Aged General Prepares To Fight for Rights

LONDON—Shall the new supreme head of the Salvation Army be English or American?

Shall the new supreme head be a man or woman?

Shall the new supreme head be a Booth—or not a Booth?

Vital questions these. When the International Council of the Army meets at Sunbury-on-Thames to consider the problem of a successor to Gen. Bramwell Booth, who lies ill and incapacitated at 73 years of age in a little cottage at Southwold, on the English coast, decisions of far-reaching importance to the organization are expected. In addition to settling the matter of who shall have control over the $100,000,000 worth of Army property, the higher strata of officials must determine what to do about the mystery of the "name in the sealed envelope." For—

Mystery of Sealed Envelope

Locked in the safety deposit vault of a London law firm lies a plain envelope containing a single, small folded sheet of paper.

On this paper is written a name.

Only one human being in the world knows whose name is written there.

That one human being is Gen. Bramwell Booth, the ailing patriarchal leader.

Sixteen years ago a similar envelope which had lain in a similar vault, shrouded in similar mystery for almost half a century, was opened—after the death of old Gen. William Booth, founder of the Salvation Army.

It contained the name of his son, Bramwell, and Bramwell automatically became sole successor and supreme head of the Army.

Nominated His Own Successor

By the terms of the foundation charter it then became the duty of Bramwell to write secretly the name of his successor, to be opened and made public only on his (Bramwell's) death.

He did so—and there the envelope lies.

It may, however, never be opened. It may be burned instead, the name inside it thus remaining an eternal mystery.

For there has grown up in the Army a formidable opinion that the method of choosing a successor to the supreme leader should be brought in line with modern democratic principles of business and government. It is pointed out that not even the pope himself has the right to nominate his successor, that being done by the college of cardinals.

The two most discussed for the generalship are Evangeline Booth, daughter of William, but an American citizen and commander of the Army in America, and Edward J. Higgins, an Englishman, who is chief of staff of the International organization, but not connected with the Booth family.

General Bramwell Booth (above), supreme head, who may abdicate his "throne," and Evangeline, his sister, who is in line for the succession.

PLUNGES TO DEATH

Body of Man Will Be Sent to New York for Burial

COLUMBUS, Jan. 8—The body of H. R. Hertenstein, 42, New York hosiery salesman, who jumped from a ninth floor window of the Deshler hotel here late yesterday afternoon, will be sent to New York for burial, according to funeral arrangements announced today.

Several pedestrians narrowly escaped injury and perhaps death when he crashed to the pavement from the height of 100 feet, crushing his skull and breaking nearly every bone in his body.

According to three "suicide" notes left by the man, his act was prompted by fear of blindness. It is reported that he had been suffering from an eye disease for more than four years.

All varieties of the cultivated banana, (Musasapietium) are quite seedless. It is a very rare to find seeds in a pineapple.

CORNHUSKERS SET ATTENDANCE MARK

Nebraska Plays Before 144,476 During 1928 Football Season

LINCOLN, Neb., Jan. 8—The 1928 University of Nebraska Cornhuskers hung up a new attendance record for Scarlet and Cream football. The Huskers played to 144,476 paid admissions, according to announcement by John K. Selleck, business manager of athletics at the University of Nebraska. This topped the 1927 figure by more than 30,000 spectators.

A glance at the attendance chart for the past campaign shows the five games at the Nebraska Memorial stadium drew a paid gate of 92,500 people, while the four games away from home attracted 51,937 people through the turnstiles.

The greatest attendance record of the Missouri valley region was established at Lincoln several years ago when more than 45,000 people witnessed the Nebraska victory over Notre Dame.

During the 1928 campaign Lincoln led the "Big Six" conference with the two largest gates of the season. The crowd of 34,002 which witnessed the Nebraska victory over Missouri was the second largest gathering in the Missouri valley region as well as nearly double the crowd that witnessed any "Big Six" game during the fall campaign.

The attendance mark of 22,225 people, that inspected the Pitt-Nebraska scoreless tie, was the second largest "Big Six" crowd of the year.

BORROW ZOO PYTHON TO MAKE HARVARD PICTURE

BOSTON—In order to give a motion picture they are making a more realistic touch, Harvard College authorities borrowed an eight foot python from the Bronx Zoo of New York City.

The python, reputed to be quite dangerous when in good condition, is to be used in a scene that shows Harvard scientists extracting snake venom to make anti-toxin. The only hitch in the plans is the fact that the python is one of the only members of the reptile family that is non-poisonous, but the authorities believe that the python will do very well for screen purposes and at the same time insure the safety of the cast.

SHEEP DECREASE

Increase Shown In Number of Dogs In Connecticut

HARTFORD, Conn.—Sheep raising in Connecticut, has literally gone to the dogs, according to the state department on domestic animals. Ten years have seen Connecticut sheep reduced from 80,000 to 8,000, and Connecticut dogs increased from 60,000 to 100,000.

The two are intimately connected, the experts on domestic animals here say, and airdales and police dogs are most responsible for the decrease in sheep in a region called ideal for sheep raising.

Precautions against colds and "flu"

Do these two things:

1. Protect nose and throat
2. Keep system in good condition

There's no need to get panicky because the papers are full of news of an influenza epidemic. There's no use in isolating yourself because a lot of other people are sick with it. If you take two simple precautions every day—and then don't worry—the chances are you will throw off any cold or "flu" germs you are exposed to, and keep well.

We're not recommending that you dose yourself with a lot of medicines, either. Just observe two common-sense health rules which can be easily followed.

FIRST of all, make sure your system is in first class order. Don't let it get slowed up or sluggish. See to it that it functions perfectly. The easiest way to get run down and in a condition to pick up disease is to neglect this all-important matter.

Physicians agree that, particularly in times of epidemic, purging by laxatives and cathartics is not advisable. Many doctors are therefore prescribing Nujol, as in no case does it cause exhaustion or weakening of the system in any way.

Nujol can't possibly upset you or disagree with you. For it contains absolutely no medicine or drugs.

Get a bottle today at your nearest drug store and start taking Nujol tonight as one simple way to keep fit and to protect yourself against influenza.

That's the first precaution. Now for the second. Keep your nose and throat well protected with Mistol.

When you get a bottle of Nujol, get a bottle of Mistol, too.

Dr. David says:

"I'm advising all my patients these days to keep Mistol on hand and use it regularly. The first thing in the morning before you go out. And again at night when you come home. Don't be afraid to use it freely. It will do no harm. And then stop worrying. You've done all you can to safeguard yourself."

"Put Mistol up your nose. There's a special dropper that comes in every package that makes it very easy to use. Just tilt your head back and drop it in your nose until you feel it in your throat. You'll notice the pleasant, cleansing effect at once. Mistol clears your head and makes breathing easy. It has a healing, soothing effect on the membranes and relieves any irritation or inflammation. It helps dry up a running nose. Use it, too, as a gargle. Mistol is good for a sore throat or hacking cough. And above all, protects the nose and throat against germs.

"Don't wait till you begin to sneeze or your throat aches. Take my advice and get a bottle of Mistol today. Every druggist knows it."

The combination treatment of Nujol and Mistol is a double safeguard against influenza. Start this two-fold precaution now, Don't delay.

Nujol and Mistol are both made by the same famous laboratories, of the finest quality materials and with the greatest skill possible. Both preparations are harmless. At all druggists. Aren't they worth trying?

Reinhardt Claims Money Causes Movies To Differ

BY DAVID P. SENTNER

(Copyright by I. N. S., 1929)

NEW YORK, Jan. 8—Prof. Max Reinhardt of Germany, has influenced the drama in artistry and magnificence like no man since Shakespeare.

He looks like a mouse of a man, the theatrical agent.

Reinhardt is a man with eyes as quiet as a church, gray-tinged hair, quiet as a church, gray-tinged hair, facile mouth and unostentatious as a bookkeeper. He personifies the theater.

I wished him good luck as he left for Hollywood to begin his first venture into the movies.

• • •

He is to direct Lillian Gish in a motion picture to be distributed by United Artists. It will be a tale of peasant life in Austria, Reinhardt's birthplace.

Reinhardt approaches his new field humbly. He plans not to change the movie industry, but merely to apply his experience from the legitimate stage to this new medium of theatrical expression. He believes there is a separate technique for the silver screen.

• • •

"What is the outstanding difference between the German and American moving picture industry?" I asked.

"The United States has money, Germany has not," he replied.

Reinhardt is for and against the "talkies."

He sees two dangers in the speaking pictures. First, that films which are universal in appeal and really traditional can only tend to be moved as an international art through the limitation of language incident to "talkies." Secondly, that talking pictures may ruin the moving picture as an independent art.

"Talking movies, by bringing to the screen stage plays almost in their entirety, with dialogue, tend to make this independent art a subsidiary of the theater and only a substitute for the theater instead of an art in itself," said Reinhardt. "Talking pictures, in their relationship to the stage, seem to me like reproductions of paintings."

However, he believes that if there is ever an international language in the movies it is likely to be English.

But the possibilities of the "talkies" have piqued his artistic curiosity, he admitted.

The picture in which Miss Gish will be starred will have sound but not dialogue, he said. It will provide an opportunity for the Reinhardt lighting effects.

It is probable that the German theatrical genius will bring some German and Viennese actors over here to support Miss Gish in the production. Reinhardt said he expected to stay in Hollywood for about four months and when he returned to Europe to interest himself in the German movies.

Born 55 years ago in Baden, near Vienna, Reinhardt has won worldwide fame for his work in the legitimate theater. After starting his career as an actor he launched into directing plays in Prague in 1898. In the 26 years since then his productions have been offered on the stages of practically every European capital and in New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, Cleveland, Boston, Kansas City, Cincinnati, St. Louis, San Francisco, and Los Angeles.

He won international fame in 1905 with his production of "Midsummer Night's Dream."

• • •

Morris Gest persuaded Reinhardt to come to America in 1924 and the Reinhardt production of "The Miracle" was presented in the United States.

During the past year Gilbert Miller presented Reinhardt's "Midsummer Night's Dream," "Danton's Death," "Everyman," "Love and Intrigue," and several other plays.

Reinhardt is noted for his persistent modeling and remodeling of a play until a spectacular production is evolved.

• • •

Professor Reinhardt has a picturesque home near Salzburg on the Austro-German border. There he stages each year the summer Salzburg dramatic and music festival.

The film on which Reinhardt will work in Hollywood is from a story by the Austrian poet, Hugo von Hofmannsthal.

Among the familiar figures in the film world who have appeared in Reinhardt dramatic productions are Emil Jannings, Conrad Veidt, Rudolph Schildkraut, Ernest Lubitsch, Joseph Schildkraut, Werner Krauss, Maldi Christians and Paul Wegener.

DR. H. A. GODDARD ON SCHOOL PROGRAM

O. S. U. Psychological Expert To Address Marion Teachers

Through the efforts of the teachers' association of Central Junior High school, Dr. H. A. Goddard, head of the Psychological clinic at Ohio State university, will address the faculty and guests Tuesday night, Jan. 22. For several years Dr. Goddard was head of the bureau of juvenile research for the state of Ohio and has written several books in regard to his findings. The most prominent of his books is "The Study of Gifted Children," which is a review of work which he accomplished while experimenting in city schools in Cleveland.

The teachers' program committee, which includes Miss Bessie Snider, chairman, Miss Helen Roby, Miss Anna Parks and W. C. Sclanders, arranged for the regular teachers' meetings held every two weeks and for this special meeting Jan. 22. The address will be made to the Central Junior High School teachers and several guests, with George A. Bowman, superintendent of schools, as honor guest of the school and W. E. Orcutt, principal. The place of the meeting has not been announced.

The group will intentionally be limited to 30, so that a free discussion of the address may be held with Dr. Goddard following its presentation.

Dr. Goddard will be a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Orcutt at a 6 o'clock dinner the evening of his arrival here.

THE FIRE INSURANCE AGENT

—A Useful Factor in Every Community

In no other business does agent mean so much as in the fire insurance business as transacted by the Stock Companies.

More than a century ago these companies established relations with property owners through responsible local representatives.

The system has grown with the insurance needs of the country. Today hundreds of the best citizens of every state are in contact with the public as representatives of the Stock Companies.

In no other field is the agent entrusted with greater authority.

The Stock Fire Insurance agent has at his command all the facilities of the companies in engineering and research to make life and property safer. He has access to systematic hazard measurements; authentic information about proper building construction; the work of Underwriters' Laboratories in testing materials and devices, and other forms of service for the benefit of the insuring public.

In every community the insurance agents are prominent in fire prevention work. They have been faithful factors in the steady reductions that have been made in the average rate charged for fire insurance during the last twenty years.

The local agent is in position to know his client and his client's property. He is prepared to study the needs of each one—brings to each the special service required—and may save you money if you will permit him to use the many available facilities and will cooperate with him in improving your risk.

SERVICE is something more than attention, something more than earnestness, something more than salesmanship. It is likewise much more than the sum total of the three. It is thoughtful, kindly, human—and not a mere impulse to automatic action. It depends not alone on courtesy and consideration of individual requirements, but rather on a pleasant anticipation of personal wants and desires. It means far more than routine activity, it means feeling, sincerity, initiative—the giving of something which can not be purchased. This alone—is SERVICE.

BOYD KNOWN BY SERVICE

Notwithstanding the unquestioned superiority of BOYD'S SERVICE, our charges are surprisingly moderate. No one need hesitate to come to us, however humble, or however exalted his circumstances.

Lighting the Lincoln Memorial.

The recent attempt so to light the Lincoln memorial in Washington that the public might gain admission to it at night was not what might be called a success. As a matter of fact it resulted in failure from an artistic standpoint for the reason that the lights used cast oddly shaped shadows on the memorial to the great disadvantage of its appearance.

There are so many points of interest to be viewed and so many sights to be seen in and about the federal capital only during daylight hours that the visitor who is not able to give the city more than a day or two of his time is bound to miss many of them, thus the more sights and scenes which he is able to view at night, the more he gets out of his visit to Washington.

There are many beautiful structures in our national capital, but in architectural and artistic merit and in beauty and excellence of construction there is none to surpass the Lincoln memorial. By many it is held architecturally to surpass any public building in the land, and some hold it without an equal the world over.

Whatever may be the worth of these contentions, there can be no question but what the Washington memorial erected to the honor of our first martyr president is a gem of its kind, a structure alone worth a trip to Washington for its viewing. It is so out of the ordinary, so unique, in its interior conception, that no visitor to Washington can afford to miss it, and the more hours it is open to the public the greater will be the scope of its educational value, its educational value not alone in architecture, but also in patriotism, for no one can visit the Lincoln memorial without coming away a better man and a better American. The failure to light it for night visitation should serve only to spur Lieutenant Colonel U. S. Grant III, public building and park director, to press on till success is attained.

The Grand Duke Nicholas.

At Antibes on the French Riviera, Sunday, death took the Grand Duke Nicholas, the only military leader worthy the name Russia has produced in half a century and one of the most striking and picturesque figures of the World war. Surviving at least half a dozen attempts to assassinate him, he died a natural death at the age of seventy-two, falling a victim to pneumonia when he was thought to be well along the road to recovery.

Standing four or five inches over six feet in height, the Grand Duke Nicholas was a commanding figure physically, and he held a commanding position in the esteem and affection of the Russian people, his popularity being as great as that of his second cousin, Czar Nicholas II, was small. He was a strict disciplinarian, but despite that had the good will of his troops, for he never asked them to go where he did not go or do what he did not do. He was a soldier who led a soldier's life in the field, and thus it was that his men were devoted to him.

The Grand Duke Nicholas was the mainstay of law and order during the period of demoralization suffered by Russia at the close of the war with Japan. It was under his leadership that Galicia was conquered during the World war, and it was his drive which so threatened Hungary that it was necessary for the German high command to divert so many army corps from the western front as to stay the threatened drive of the Teutonic armies on Paris. Nothing less than the certainty that, if unchecked, the Russians would overrun East Prussia would have caused the Central powers to withdraw such masses of men from the western front at such a time. Hence it is that the grand duke's name should go down in history as another of the saviors Paris.

After the Russo-Japanese war the grand duke made a high reputation for himself by reconstructing the Russian army on a high plane of efficiency, a work to which he devoted his entire attention. At that time he was commonly acknowledged to be the finest cavalry expert in Russia, and probably in Europe. He was acclaimed as a most worthy son of his warrior father, who had successfully commanded the Russian forces against Turkey. When, in the World war, he made his successful offensive against the Austrians, his popularity was so increased that he not only became the idol of the army, but also of the Russian people. Pictures of him used to be carried in Russian religious processions, and the popular support behind him was so great that it is said he could easily have made himself dictator and ruler of the Russian people. In fact, Czar Nicholas II recognized the powerful position held by the grand duke, for it was alone the threat of the latter to lead the army in a revolution which prevented the former from signing a separate peace with the Central powers following the collapse of the Russian army in the swamps of Masuren under the counter-offensive of the heavy German reinforcements from the western front.

It's idle at this late date to speculate regarding what might have been, but who knows what world conditions would be today had Grand Duke Nicholas Nicholaievitch and not Nicholas II occupied the throne of Russia? The World war might not, probably would not, have been precipitated, and Russia today might still be under the Romanoffs rather than under the misrule of Dictator Stalin and the small coterie of lieutenants under him who have made of Russia a cancerous growth threatening the governments of the world.

Twenty minutes after three bandits held up and robbed the First National bank, of Moxico, Missouri, of $21,500, one was shot and killed, another captured and the third surrounded by a posse of citizens previously organized for just such an eventuality. Here's a prediction. Sooner or later the vigilante idea will have to be adopted rather generally if the criminal world is to be put under subjection and law and order made to prevail.

Burglars broke into the jail in Fresnes, France, and got away with loot valued at $100. Who longer dare say that France is not becoming Americanized?

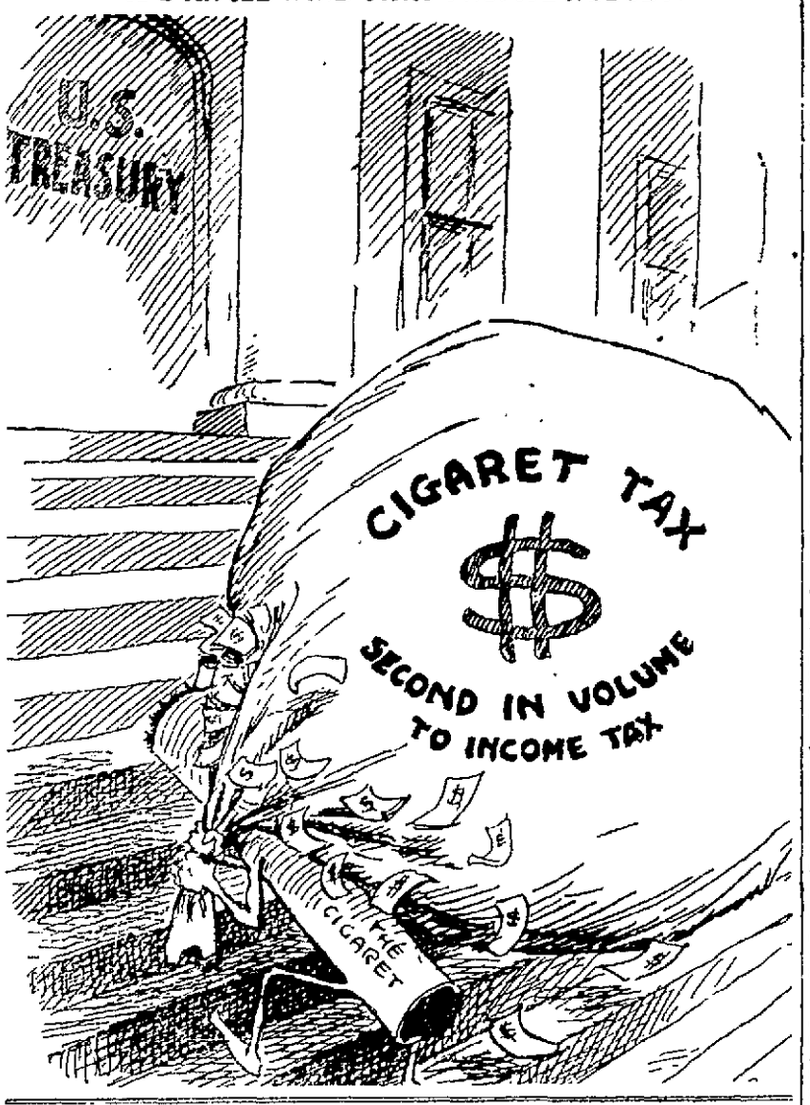
A Green Bay, Wisconsin, policeman has been bound over for trial as an accessory before the fact to the $10,000 Farmers' Exchange bank robbery there of which he is held to have been the "master mind." Happily, despite the number of cases of police dishonesty and crookedness, those falling from grace are the exceptions to the rule. Even yet we have faith in the honesty of the great proportion of humanity.

Belgium and Egypt have signed the war gas ban initiated by the United States, but never ratified by the senate. We aren't worried about Belgium, but we shudder to think what Egypt may do to us if we don't sign on the dotted line and get the protection of the agreement against her.

The gross indebtedness of the United States was reduced $183,657,742 during December making a total debt reduction for the year of almost $750,000,000, and the government yet has a total of $3,205,963,182 in gold coin and bullion in the treasury. We'll say this for "Uncle Andy" Mellon; the finances of the government couldn't have been better handled had we tacked the job ourself.

Within ten days after the discovery that American passports were being forged in Italy, the Italian authorities not only discovered and seized the plant in which the forged passports were printed and prepared, but also had the leaders and all the members of the gang of forgers under arrest. Why wouldn't it be a scheme to borrow from Benito Mussolini a squad or two of his police to put ours over here in America wise to how it is done?

"IT'S AN ILL WIND THAT PROFITS NOBODY."



Danger Lies in Complications.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Nature planned the chest so that the heart and lungs might be protected against accident. Placed deep in this cavity and remote from the outer world, these vital organs are rarely involved in disease and then only by extension from fairly remote parts of the anatomy.

The lungs are suspended within a space surrounded by chesthone, ribs and backbone. They are covered by a closely fitting tissue, called the "pleura."

This same material lines the inside of the cavity. Between this and the pleura-covered lungs is an empty space.

Just enough moisture is provided to permit the lungs, when they are filled with air, to slide over the chest walls without friction. It is an admirable arrangement, allowing deep breathing without consciousness of the inflated air cells.

Unfortunately, we are so situated that we can not escape upsets in nature's wise plans. Among other ailments we are liable to have is an inflammation of this delicate membrane. Then there is trouble.

The slippery membrane becomes sticky. One membrane, instead of sliding over the other as it should, may become attached to it. Some part of the tissue covering the lungs becomes adherent to the lining of the ribs.

The disease which causes this disturbance in the normal action of the lungs is called "pleurisy." The form I have described is sometimes called "dry pleurisy."

But it rarely stops here. In all probability the disease will progress. Then there is a marked increase in the quantity of fluid in the chest. The doctors speak of this accumulation of fluid as an "effusion." This may be so great as to crowd the lungs, actually compressing them so they can not be filled with air.

In one form this effusion consists of a straw-colored fluid. In another form the pleural cavity is filled with pus. Then we have "empyema."

You can well believe that a large accumulation of pus within the chest is a serious matter. There is danger of general blood-poisoning, with rupture of the lung or chest wall.

Pleurisy comes on with chill, fever, cough and pain in the chest. The pain is very severe. It is a cutting, stabbing, sharp, most distressing pain. Every breath taken increases the agony.

The fever runs to 101 or 102 degrees, or more. It continues for a week or ten days. Difficult breathing and hard, dry cough are always present.

In a favorable case the fluid is gradually absorbed. The fever declines and after five or six weeks recovery is quite complete.

Rest in bed, strapping the chest with broad strips of adhesive plaster to lessen the movement in breathing, and the giving of appropriate medicines, will hasten recovery. If the effusion is extensive, it may be necessary to puncture the chest wall to drain away the fluid.

This is the simple story of a most uncomfortable but, fortunately, not particularly serious disease. It is necessary in every case, however, to guard the health for some time after recovery from the acute symptoms.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

N. Z. Q—I am inclined to be stout, but my legs are not developed—would rubbing them with cocoa butter be of any benefit?

A—Possibly. Exercise would be most helpful—running, brisk walking, dancing, jumping, swimming, skating—should all bring about improvement.

• • •

M. G. Q—What treatment is advised for hay fever? Are there any sections in the East where this trouble is minimized?

A—Careful examination of the nasal passage will disclose whether or not there is an obstruction or catarrhal condition causing the symptoms. Serum treatment should be helpful if the trouble is merely due to irritation, caused by some flower or weed. Seashore is perhaps best—any locality where there is an absence of flowers and grasses to any great extent.—Copyright, 1929, Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Carrying the Ocean Mails.

MAILS AND SHIPS.

The confusion of explanations for the withdrawal of American mail from the Cunard line and the hasty recession of the order, so far as the Berengaria is concerned, are plain evidence of departmental blundering. Whether the fight over the Havana route was the occasion for the original order or not, here is clearly a stupid handling of a complex commercial problem and a silly affront to a great line serving this country with the highest type of vessels and seamanship.

Two morals suggest themselves. One is that if the growth of the American merchant marine is to progress swiftly and surely a new and different direction of governmental policies must be created at Washington. A single-headed, united control, placed in the department of commerce, is one obvious solution. The Shipping board has not and can not meet the needs of the situation.

The second moral is that the sooner an American line has a weekly express service equal to the best in the north Atlantic, the better. Date for the ships of the United States lines are to be opened on January 15. One of the ships to be sold is the Leviathan. We hope greatly that a bid will be received from an operator competent to run a service of this type and that aid will be given to such a purchaser which will support the building of the two additional fast liners needed to provide a weekly service.

This country should not be dependent upon the ships of other nations for its mail service. Every consideration of prestige, as of national defense, calls for this initial step upon the most important of our trade routes. A service of equal quality, uniting this country with South America, should follow promptly. The north Atlantic fleet would amount to a proclamation of sea policy which nobody could misunderstand. But to make such an undertaking successful, departmental confusion and blundering must first be ended and the administration of governmental aid placed under the highest type of American directing genius.—New York Herald Tribune.

SHIPS AND SEALING WAX.

An apparent petty attempt by the post office department at Washington to penalize the Cunard line by withholding mail from the Berengaria is explained—or explained away—by the assistant postmaster general in charge of foreign mail. He declares truthfully that he should have no concern at all in quarrels about shipping, and that "my business is getting the mail to foreign ports as quickly as possible." Then he enters into a little calculation of time tables where it is difficult to follow him. The mathematical upshot would seem to be that a ship which takes nine days to cross will, if it starts one day earlier, arrive before a ship which takes only six days. However, it is reassuring to know that the post-office department is not going to imitate the Shipping board in a display of bad temper simply because an English company has sought to obtain a part of the ocean carriage of passengers between New York and Havana. Nor is it a question of especially favoring American liners in the writing of mail contracts or assigning the mails to be carried. The sensible position is taken by the postoffice department that, in accepting letters or mailable articles from the public, it is bound to do its best to deliver them at their destination in the shortest time possible, by whatever facilities are available.

Of course, all Americans wish to see their flag more frequently on the sea, and are ready to do everything reasonable to bring about a larger proportion of American freights in American bottoms. But it must never be forgotten that the ocean remains the greatest area of free competition on this earth. There, if anywhere, enterprise finds a fair field and needs to ask for no favors. In the long run, in overseas transportation it is service, not nationality, that counts. The way to defeat a rival is to do better work cheaper than he does. It is certain that we can not beat him by making ugly faces at him.—New York Times.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, Jan. 8—It used to be that just to mention Hoboken was good for a vaudeville laugh. Like so many other towns with wild Jersey names it was a peg upon which jokesters hung wheezes. Nobody it would seem journeyed there save to catch a boat.

But Hoboken suddenly became a place of importance and sophistication, and is called "the last seacoast of Bohemia." The intelligentzia began writing pieces about it in the ultra journals. New Yorkers go there in droves to be entertained. In a word, Hoboken has achieved that frazzled description, "smart."

For years it was noted as a German center where the thrifty hausfrau kept her pots and pans shining and sea-going husbands, aided by good beer and the tilt of the sea, paraded the sidewalks with rolling gaits. Hoboken's manner was supposed to be stodgy.

The opening of the Holland tunnel through which New Yorkers may motor in white-tiled elegance, played its part in the new sparkle. Other things, such as the old-time Hofbrau and German cooking also contributed to the remarkable renaissance.

The new Hoboken is proof that cultured appetites often run to pig's knuckles, red cabbage, tripe and other such low foods. Hoboken has many places where such delicacies may be washed down by frothy mugs of beer whose alcoholic content is never a matter for debate.

There is, too, a playhouse which is presenting plays weekly by competent performers. It has none of the "arty" eagerness to save the drama such as is featured by so many obscure theatrical movements. It is merely offering intelligent plays intelligently.

Broadway producers swamped with the cussing and cocktail dramas are already beginning seriously to discuss the "Hoboken movement." And the nightly migrations have been felt by the Times Square eating belt. Among those I saw over there were Charles Hanson Towne, Christopher Morley, Frieda Hempel, Conde Nast, Arthur Hopkins and Berton Braley.

One of the most interesting phases of New York life is the shifting of its amusement centers. Last year the appeal to sophisticates was in Harlem's Black belt. Few seem to go there any more. And now it is Hoboken.

Our Little Foes.

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS.

Even though you are not a cotton raiser you know the terror of the foes' advance if only you have tried to cultivate a little incidental fruit in your garden. It is [illegible]. The enemy assault by land, by water and by air. His subterranean sappers and his aerial squadrons are equally to be feared. It was not so formerly in places that I knew in rural New York. Then the farmer could look with peaceful anticipation at his apple trees, and in winter could see his cellar bins filled with the green, yellow and red globes of pippins, greenings and spitzenbergs, not one of which's smooth, shining skins had suffered an insect's fell sting, and none of which had its heart's core filled with the bitter dust of concentrated death.

Now visit the sites of the old orchards—for which Normandy never had an equal—and if there are any bearing trees to be seen, they are the nurslings of an arboreal hospital, where the scent of sprays, tars, oils and all the abominations of a war to the death drive away the memory of the pure, sweet blossom-scented air of other days.

Our insect foes seem to multiply faster than the entomologists can classify them. There are 400,000 described species of these little six-legged Davids, and they have become the terror of the two-legged Goliath, Man. They bite him, sting him, poison him; with their mimic hypodermic needles they inject the virus of disease into his veins; in shoals curtaining hosts they descend and eat up his crops, his vegetables, with gardens and whole fields of grain—a blast of ruin worse than Attila's; they league themselves against his only allies in nature, the green things that prepare his food; they cut him off from aid on every side; they devour or vitiate his nourishment, they isolate him, and force him to fight day and night; they are, in effect, all at with the innumerable hosts of microbes—for the ultimate tenor of this war is to give the world over to the reign of the numberless little. It is the rivalry of mere instinct backed by massed innumerability against reason supported by the paucity of conscious, trained individuality.

I believe that all the authority of the world's leading entomologists supports the statement that, looking not only to the future but to the present, the most dangerous rival of the human race is the race of insects. People who have never practically studied the subject have little notion of the imp-like powers of many insects and of their horrible little cousins, the spiders with their arachnid relatives. It is only their relative minuteness that makes it safe for us to live with them. Have you ever seen a highly magnified image of a fly or a spider? If you have you will not easily forget it. Then imagine them increased in real size to the dimensions of the tiger!

But it is not by virtue of their physical structure that they threaten us. It is because of their countless numbers and their insidious methods of attack. The time has come when there is no longer room in the world for man and the insect hosts at their present pitch of numbers and with their present appetites. Many millions of dollars are annually expended in every civilized land to combat their ravages. In certain cases insects have been set to devour insects on man's behalf, for fortunately, there are some species which destroy others. Then, too, a few insects are really of aid and value to man. Leading among these are the honey bees, which not only furnish a food for us but are coadjutors with the plants, aiding flowers to fertilize one another. There are considerable numbers of these flower-fertilizing insects, but as a whole the race is inimical to man.—Copyright, 1929, International Feature Service, Inc.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

Five thousand persons were paroled from the municipal court in Cleveland in a year. Two per cent. violated their paroles. Of these cent. were men and one per cent. were women. Thus statistics show that men and women are equally honest. The fact is that figures taken almost any time, anywhere, would probably prove about the same thing. Some think that men are more intelligent and women more moral. If the whole business could be thoroughly analyzed it would probably be shown that many of the supposed differences are imaginary. Men and women are different, but about equally reliable.

Public officials who shut their doors on newspaper reporters are more to be pitied than scorned. They are merely dumb and, like all dumb people, can't last in a good job. The public has no confidence in any official who is afraid to keep his office door and his books open. A man a reporter can't talk to is a man the public won't trust for long. Bulldozers are all right in the prize ring, but they merely take up room in public office.

It is not pleasant to be insulted or humiliated. But when you feel yourself becoming annoyed, remember that the bigger the man the harder it is to insult him. It is not pleasant to deal with lightweights, but remember that it is much better to deal with lightweights than it is to be lightweight yourself.

Despatches from London showed excitement because a young woman changed her mind, almost on the way to the church, and decided to marry another man. She is probably not a foolish or a too changeable young woman at all. She probably showed common sense—deciding that the time to change one's mind about one's husband is before church time and not after.

EXTRA SESSION MAY HALT HOOVER PLANS

President-Elect Likely To Have To Curtail Proposed Caribbean Tour

WASHINGTON Jan 8—Confronted by an apparently inevitable extra session of congress in early spring President elect Hoover faced the necessity today of sharply curtailing his projected Caribbean tour next month

As he resumed his conferences with congressional leaders at his hotel headquarters today Hoover's chief interest centered upon a date for the assembling of the new congress Assured that the congestion in the present session precludes all possibility of comprehensive agricultural legislation before March 14 the president-elect is reconciled to the task of accommodating his won pre inaugural program to the added preparatory work involved in the special session To this end he likely will be compelled to reduce the proposed Caribbean tour to a mere week end visit to Havana His tentative program contemplated stops in Santo Domingo, Porto Rico and the Virgin Islands

Call on Hoover

Although Hoover has remained silent since his return to Washington Sunday, his conferences with house and senate leaders have substantiated reports that farm relief and tariff revision will be linked in the special session Should this program be approved by Hoover, the new administration would be set off to the tune of one of the most important sessions since the Harding post war congress of 1921 Here for the first time since the war, the clash of the protected east—with its cry for high tariff barriers—and the agricultural west—with its demand for economic equality—would be decided or compromised in a legislative arena unencumbered by the myriad subplots of the usual regular session

Senator William E Borah of Idaho one of the principal advocates of the special session since his pre election conference with Hoover here, in which he urged the project upon the Republican presidential candidate was on the list of callers at Hoover headquarters today

Rep Walter Newton of Minnesota who directed the Republican speakers bureau from the Chicago campaign headquarters was another with whom Hoover sought to discuss the legislative outlook Other callers from the house were Representatives Robsion of Kentucky and Free of California

Grasp on Events

Hoover began his second day of conference with a firm grasp of political events since his departure immediately after election for his historic making good will tour of Latin America In addition to meetings with a dozen leaders of the house and senate yesterday he filled in the details of the political picture through a long fireside chat last night with Vice President elect Curtis, the Republican leader of the senate Curtis was a dinner guest at Hoover's home and remained long afterward in conference with his host

Another echo of the South American tour figured in the Hoover program today in the scheduled call of Senor Dr Gurgel Do Amaral the Brazilian ambassador who sought out the president elect to thank him for the courtesy of his call at Rio and to acquaint him with the favorable reaction of the visit as now translated in Brazil in terms of cordial enthusiasm for the United States

TWO LOSE LIVES IN COURTHOUSE BLAZE

$100,000 Damage Done at Lima, Bodies of Men Recovered from Ruins

LIMA, Jan 8—Two lives and $100,000 damage was yesterday's fire toll as flames swept the west wing of the Allen county courthouse here

Late last night the bodies of Capt John Wolfe 48 and John Fisher 38 had been removed from the still smouldering debris which covered the second floor common pleas court room

Grim visaged hair frozen firemen city street department crews and policemen worked steadily with shovels and blow torch to reach the bodies of the fallen fire-fighters

The body of Fisher was reached at 6 o'clock and that of Captain Wolfe at 9 40 p m

Wolf and Fisher were trapped when with a slight explosion warning the roof with and third floors crumpled and crashed to the second story

Frank Kinzer who was working with Wolfe and Fisher recalls with shaking of the shock report which knocked him a matter of seconds the case is

There was a crash he said and all three of us shouted duck at the same time I rushed for the door and as I reached it the world fell in the floor The force of crash sent me hurtling through the doorway I thought Wolfe and Fisher were right behind me

The position of the bodies of the two firemen showed they had started to gain the exit Both were killed instantly it is believed by falling iron beams

The fire originated in the court of appeals courtroom on the third floor of the building and was caused by an overheated steam radiator according to Fire Chief John Mack

Valuable records of the regular offices of the courthouse and those of the eighth district court of appeals were unharmed

Flames were extinguished shortly after the fire broke out and hundreds of volunteers aided in carrying out the books and records of a majority of the offices

Hal Murray, deputy in the county recorder's office was slightly injured when he slid down a rope from his office and fell Murray reported to the rope when he feared he would be overcome by smoke He was taken to city hospital He will be released today attaches said last night

Records Safe

As the fire rapidly grew worse every available bit of apparatus in the city was brought into play The Station pumper, which served as well in the American bank building fire halted and Chief Mack again called on Wapakoneta for aid

Streams of water from the Wapakoneta pumper were again instrumental in quelling the blaze before it could sweep the entire building

The fire was not treated seriously by county officials until it had gained considerable headway About an hour after the discovery of the blaze officials were making frantic and what probably would have proved partially successful efforts to remove their records had the blaze swept the entire building

Relief was manifest among attorneys of the 10 counties covered by the third district court of appeals when it was learned from Judge Kent W Hughes that papers and exhibits before the court were safe

MANY GET BACK YOUNG APPETITE

Quick lunches, usually cold, gulped down so the "dinner hour" will not be over before you can do a little playing, is the best way to ruin your stomach, and you suffer from indigestion, heartburn, bloating, nervousness, headaches; and, worst of all, you get thin, pale and weak.

If you must eat that way, always keep a package of Pape's Diapepsin Laudy so you can chew one of the pleasant-tasting tablets after your meals. It keeps the food sweet so your stomach can digest it.

Follow the experience of thousands who again have a young appetite. All druggists recommend and guarantee Pape's Dinpepsin to relieve indigestion and sweeten the stomach in 5 minutes.—Adv.

DANDRUFF
A Sure Way to End It

There is one sure way that has ever failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon from any drug store (that is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.—Adv.

If I Were A Man | If I Were A Girl

I WOULDN'T talk about myself all the time.

I wouldn't recount, at great length and in detail, all the little happenings at the office in which I figured during the day. I wouldn't tell what "I sez to the boss" and what "the boss sez to me", making myself the hero of every encounter, the fearless knight without reproach who stood up for his rights no matter who might try to trample on him.

I wouldn't listen impatiently while someone else told an experience, and when he had finished cap it off with a belittling "Oh, that's nothing! Listen to what happened to me."

Other people like to hold the floor occasionally, and they also like to listen to something else besides the one all-important subject of what I'VE been doing and thinking and feeling all my life.

Women may get away with personalities, but men are expected to bring forth something more interesting once in a while.

I WOULDN'T entertain a dog and a man at the same time.

I don't know how a dog feels about it, but I do know how a man feels. He doesn't like it. When a man calls on a girl he wants her undivided attention; not stray scraps.

He can't very well carry on an animated conversation with her when she bursts forth every minute with "Here, Fido! Lie down! That's the boy—nice boy. Now be a good little doggie," and a lot of such foolishness. He doesn't get any particular thrill out of hearing sweet nothings being poured into Fido's ears.

If any cooing is to be done, he would like to be the object of it. And, if any kisses are to be handed out, he thinks himself a more logical candidate than a fuzzy-haired, floppy-eared dog.

"Love me, love my dog," may be all right but the girl friend's dog should be loved from a distance.

Doctors Everywhere Urge Citrus Fruits as Effective "FLU" Preventive

Florida Rushing Oranges and Grapefruit to Epidemic Cities

Former President of Hahnemann Hospital, Chicago, Tells Here of Protective Measures

FOREMOST physicians say that one of the quickest, most effective precautions against influenza known to modern medicine is to eat—and drink—oranges and grapefruit plentifully.

For citrus fruits turn alkaline in the system—build up the alkaline reserve that increases resistance to common colds, grippe and influenza. They provide vitamins and mineral salts that help the general health of the body—for oranges and grapefruit are one of the world's richest known sources of these vital food factors. They combat acidity—so often resulting from the usual winter diet of meats, heavy starches, sweets—acidity which is an internal enemy of the body, lowering normal resistance and inviting illness.

Start Citrus Protection Without Delay, Doctors Warn

Now, with the influenza epidemic raging in city after city throughout this country, leading doctors everywhere are urging adults and children to take the precautionary health measures listed here to help fight the disease.

Everybody, young and old, should have plentiful amounts of Florida Oranges and Grapefruit every day—several times a day. A glass of orange juice or half a grapefruit for breakfast is nowhere near enough. Serve Florida Oranges or Grapefruit at every meal—and in between times. The newest way for grapefruit is as a drink—squeezed right into the glass—chilled—sweetened a bit if preferred.

But in whatever form, remember that at this time Florida Oranges and Grapefruit are recommended urgently by modern doctors as one of the most important protective measures possible against the "flu" and other kindred illnesses.

This advertisement is sponsored by the Florida Citrus Growers' Clearing House Ass'n, Winter Haven, Florida.

DR. DANIEL R. HODGDON, of New York, formerly President of the Hahnemann Hospital in Chicago, has successfully prevented colds and "flu" among 1100 children whose diets he now personally supervises. He says:

"Too much stress cannot be laid upon the use of citrus fruits and fresh vegetables during any influenza epidemic. Each person should eat generous amounts of oranges and grapefruit, together with plenty of raw vegetables every day.

"Should you feel a cold coming on, an extra measure of protection is to drink the heated juice of a grapefruit just before retiring, in addition to the grapefruit and oranges you take several times during the day. There is no surer way of breaking up a cold or influenza.

"Avoid the use of excessive protein foods, eggs, meats, etc., and carbohydrates. Avoid rich foods and overeating. Get plenty of sleep, keeping windows open. Keep house temperature even throughout the day, avoiding overheating. Stay out of crowds if possible.

"If you feel ill, consult your physician immediately."

Does his mother realize?

Considerate mothers will act at once.

Constipation will blunt the keenest intellect, and many a child is classed as "dull" through bowels failing to act regularly. They need mother's watchful care.

If your child is listless, dull and out-of-sorts, it means that the stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with constipated waste. Just give a dose of "California Fig Syrup," and soon all the sour bile and irritating poison are moved from the bowels, and the child is bright and energetic again. "California Fig Syrup" cleans and regulates the bowels, and insures pure blood, clear complexion, joyous spirits, a keen brain, healthy appetite and promotes sturdy growth.

To be sure that the Fig Syrup you buy is the genuine, look for the name "California" on the package.—Adv.

An Unusual Romance of Love and Sacrifice

BY HAZEL LIVINGSTON

CHAPTER SIXTY

OLD Mr. Greely was restless. Up and down, up and down, he paced, lighting cigars, and letting them go out, took books, took looks at the clock in the library and the passing minutes. One o'clock. Two o'clock. Was there ever such a long day? Sunday papers littered the floor, cigar and cigarette stubs. He couldn't read, for the smoke. He had not had a cocktail since dinner, for fear of spoiling the appetite of Sister Anne's pet hen's on the hardwood floor of the hall . . . With surprising dexterity he made a leap for the fireside rug, and dropped into it, pulling a sheet of paper over his face. Just in time.

Sister Anne paused in the doorway. "John, are you asleep?"

A faint snore.

"John!"

Another snore. So she rustled away, disappointment written large on her round, stupid face, and when she had gone he lowered the paper and sat there, staring into the fire.

* * *

Over and over again Daphne read the letter, the letter that Allan Winters' wrote one mad September night, and never meant her to have.

"He should have told me!" she whispered over, and over again. "It wasn't fair not to tell me!"

She got up and moved around the stark, empty office, wringing her hands, mourning as if for someone who was dead. The stiff, finely written sheets writhed on the desk where she had dropped them, with a curious, whispering sound, as if they had come to life, and were talking to her . . . She came quickly and flattened them out, so that they ceased crackling.

And there they lay, looking up at her mutely . . . those crumpled pages . . . the story of Allan's love. Little detached sentences jumped up at her . . . "I always loved you, ever since that first day at Bolinas . . . I made up my mind I would never see you again when I realized you belonged to Ralph . . . want you to have the best . . . owe so much to Ralph . . ."

It was as if he were there, talking . . . why had she never seen him so clearly before. His tall, rangy figure, his clear, bright blue eyes, the thin, freckled face, the tough light brown hair . . .

She could feel the warm salt air, hear the sea breaking on Bolinas Beach . . . they were running along the hard sand together, he was laughing, looking up into her eyes . . .

And now they were dancing on a crowded floor, swimming through a maze of dancers, clinging to each other, lost in the music, forgetful of everything . . . yesterday, and tomorrow . . .

"Kiss me—just once!" She heard him saying that again . . . They were on Mrs. Hinckle's stairs . . .

She put her hands over her eyes . . . "No, no . . . it isn't fair! . . it isn't right to let things happen like that . . ."

The crumpled pages began to rustle again . . . "Don't!" she whispered, pushing them away, as if they were alive.

She could push them away, but she couldn't push Allan Winters away. He had never seemed so close. The room was full of him . . . every scrap of paper, every yellowed photograph pulsed with him . . . Where once she had seen a sad-eyed woman in a drooping picture hat, and a dapper horseman in gaudy dress—just pictures of Allan's parents—she saw saw Allan now, a lanky, wistful child . . . Allan romping with his collie, loving him, weeping over him, where an hour ago there had been just a faded snapshot of a dog barking at something invisible in a tree, and on the back, in unformed childish writing, "My dere Peter. Died Sept. 3, 1910."

Even the blue and red ribbons with their blackened gilt inscriptions, relics of old Jim Winters' stables, were part of Allan . . . a young Allan who hung around his father's horses, rejoicing in their triumphs . . .

Rejoicing in the honors the horses won, rejoicing in Ralph McKevitt's football honors . . . oh, Allan, Allan wasn't there anything of your own to cherish? Weren't you ever proud of yourself at all?

She reached out her hands, as if to comfort him, and quite suddenly he was gone. She was alone in an empty office, with a pile of old papers. A sense of utter desolation came over her. The letter cracked in her hands. A loud sound in the deserted, silent place. She put her head on the littered desk and wept.

* * *

She heard the telephone ringing. It must have been ringing a long time. "Hello," she said when she got there, but there was no one on the wire. "Will you excuse it," Central said.

So Mr. Greely decided that his hunch was wrong, his secretary wasn't working after all. He got his hat and his stick and went for a walk.

But his call roused Daphne. She washed her face and hands in cold water, struggled back to something like composure. No use crying. No use dreaming of what might have been. "I've got a job anyway," she thought. "That's more than I'd have if I'd listened to Ralph. After all, Allan took care of himself—he skipped . . . oh well!"

She ripped open the last envelope. It contained a little wad of penciled memos, all covered with neat figures. Something about the money at last. That would please Mr. Greely. Just her luck that she left it for the last.

She copied two slips, neatly and accurately before their full significance dawned on her. Why, these were records of money turned over to Ralph, records of money Allan had drawn from the bank for him . . . fifty dollars, five hundred, two thousands . . .

Her fingers flew through the pile. Hundreds, thousands of dollars.

But if Ralph had this money, how could he say that Allan . . . that Allan took it? Her pulses began to race. Her breath came in painful, panting gusts. Her face was crimson. Ralph must have known . . . all along . . . he must have betrayed Allan to save himself . . .

She began to cry softly then, like a child who has stumbled upon some dread secret in the dark . . . "What will happen now? What will they do when they find out?"

Her teeth were chattering so that she could hardly talk when, with her back to the wall, and her eyes still glued on the mute slips on the desk, she got Mr. Greely's house, and asked for him.

Henry answered, in the high, nasal tone he had adopted years ago to discourage hysterical women who demanded to speak to the Master. "No, he isn't in . . . I couldn't say . . . probably not until late."

Daphne hung up the receiver, still crying weakly. She couldn't stay there . . . she couldn't wait for Mr. Greely to come back . . . She thought of Allan . . . a fugitive in the eyes of the law . . . Ralph even called him—a jailbird—when he knew, he knew that Allan was innocent! He boasted, even last night, of all he had done for Allan, when all the while he had done this thing to him, this terrible thing . . .

* * *

Daphne had never been in Ralph McKevitt's apartment though she had passed it often enough, on her solitary walks. She never knew just how she got there now, or why she had come . . . except that she had to come, she had to tell him . . .

When she had rung a long time his sleepy voice answered—"Well—who is it?"

"It's I—Daphne—You must let me come up—I've got to see you!"

"Daphne!—For heaven's sake—well—wait a minute—I'll be down and let you in."

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

TODAY was Tuesday. And it was just as cold as it was last year, and I asked my grandfather at breakfast whilst Jubilee and the hunch was waiting outside for me to finish feeding my face, if anybody ever forgot to have the summer come and left winter stay all summer, and he said he didn't believe it was possible. He said we have pretty reliable weather men, and he said when they come out in the paper and say it is going to be a pleasant day we almost always have a pleasant day within a week or two. He said to run along to school and not to worry, because he would predict that within five months I would be standing on the bank of the river out back of the poorhouse with a hard knot tied in my shirttail. I do not want a hard knot tied in my shirttail, but that means that it will be warm enough to go swimming if I have.

I hope if I am standing out there with a hard knot in my shirttail the girls won't come snooping through the bushes. A girl is not so very brite and they do not look where they are going. I ran half a mile one time taking off my clothes and throwing them down as I ran toardst the river so as to be the first one in, because I had hollered, "Last one in knows what he is!" and just as I went around the willows at the river trying to shake my britches off my last ankle there were Maggie and Younias and Feeble setting by the side of the river, and I turned around without touching the ground and went back like an airplane, and I stepped into the other leg of my britches and put my other clothes on as I went past them, but I didn't go back to where they were after I got dressed. I went and hid down under the stink factory and hoped I would never see them again. But when I saw them the next day they didn't say anything about it, only Feeble asked me if I was sunburnt because my face was so red.

Today the Last Rag of Tripe had a pipe and he said he was going to go into the basement and eat Mush's wife for a light, so we all went in with him and he did, and she looked and I guess she thought she would give him a light and he would get sick, so she lit a match and held it to his pipe and the bowl was full of soot and he sneezed and it went all over her face. Her eyes looked like white doorknobs sticking out of her face, and she was so surprised that she let him get away, and she didn't dast tell the teacher, because she was lighting his pipe for him. He is a dirty crook but it was a good trick.

Mrs. Minnie Hildebrand, Box 334, Lynnville, Ia., writes: "I was a sufferer for three months of Whelan's Nerve Tonic. I was up and down nervous. I lost and almost lost a child. Love's Awakening

The Heart Story of a Woman's Lasting Affections

BY ADELE GARRISON

Madge to Have Week-End Guest

"YES, we can manage the car," I said in answer to Harry Underwood's query. But he must have been able to read between the words, for he suddenly gave me a bluff assurance.

"Oh! I'll drive you through the city, and over to the Jersey side," he said. "And we'll agree now on some village outside Newark where I can meet you and pilot you back again."

"I'm not going to protest or say I'm sorry to inconvenience you," I told him. "I'm just going to say thank you and accept your offer immediately. I don't mind driving my own car to the city, but that big beauty of yours—I'd be so nervous I'd be sure to get a fender smashed."

"I'm not worrying about fenders," he said dryly. "But you don't want any frazzled nerve ends when you meet the Brixton family again."

"If you're crowded," Dicky said, "one or two of the women folks can pile into my boat, until we reach the jumping off place on the Jersey side. Then I can bring Harry back. But when you go after them, old son, I'm afraid you'll have to travel by train. I'm up to my ears at the magazine. I had no idea what Ede was up against until I got in there. No wonder the old girl was peeved. She hasn't developed even an imitation grin yet, and I've been working my head off, ever since I struck the dump."

Eyes Grow Green.

At the words I felt the hot rush of the flaming jealous resentment which every intimate reference of Dicky's to Edith Fairfax, brings to me. Then I caught the sage amused look with which Harry Underwood was regarding my husband, and my own comprehending mirth blotted out my anger. With the impishness which always lurks in my husband's soul, he was endeavoring to "larrup my goat," as he himself would have expressed it.

It was an old trick of his in the early days of our marriage, but he had not used it much in the years intervening between that time and the present year. I had noticed it several times, however, since my entrance into Philip Veritzon's employ, and I could not escape the suspicion that something more than impishness was at the root of his attempts to arouse my jealousy.

I mentally thanked Harry Underwood for the mirthful look which had steadied me, and which enabled me to turn an absolutely unruffled face to my husband.

"I hope you don't mean Ede's so busy she can't get out this next week end," I said worriedly. "You know I've been counting on her as soon as the Brixtons were gone."

Dick Is Peeved

There was piqued surprise in Dicky's eyes, and his tone betrayed pettishness as he answered my apparently hospitable speech.

"You've kept your yearning very successfully to yourself," he said. "Ede doesn't suspect that she's invited for this week."

"Then you're not a very trustworthy messenger, my dear," I said airily. "I remember distinctly that I told you I would expect her the first week end after the Brixtons left."

"You told me," Dicky retorted, "but I should think you would have had the courtesy to tell her. You're the hostess. I've been waiting to see——"

"No, you haven't," struck in Harry Underwood with his unfailing dale for relieving a strained situation. "You just plain forgot what Madge told you, and are trying to stall. Don't try to pull any of that cosfal error stuff when I'm around. I heard the fair Edith say that Madge had asked her to come out for a week end soon. If she doesn't know which one, you're the one who needs to write to the etiquette editor."

AVOID UGLY PIMPLES

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel: there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; know them by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c, 30c, 60c.—Adv.

SUCCESSFUL METHODS FOR COMBATTING FLU AND COLDS

Follow These Rules—Do Not Fool With a Cold — Use Tried Safe Methods

Look out for colds—even mild colds in the head and throat.

Don't let them get down into the chest and lungs.

Don't expose yourself to damp or wet weather.

Don't go out if you are feeling sick. Influenza, grippe, pneumonia or other serious sickness often come from colds.

THE DANGER

Cold, "Flu" and Pneumonia Germs multiply by the millions and attack the weak and the strong alike. Watch out for colds, they weaken your resistance. The greatest danger lies in that "simple cold." Kill that cold quickly.

It is of vast importance to clean out the entire intestinal tract, upper and lower bowels regularly. Keep the kidneys well flushed and freshen and strengthen the blood.

Experience of 1918

The experience of the 1918 epidemic showed that one of the best and simplest treatments was to take a steaming hot cupful of Bulgarian Herb Tea.

Why take any chances, why not be prepared to fight off your cold or "flu?"

The right thing to do now is to go to your druggist, get a box of Bulgarian Herb Tea. Kill off your cold. Take it steaming hot twice a week. It will heat up the chilled blood, increase the circulation and rid the bowels and intestines of poisons and germs. Every family will find Bulgarian Herb Tea (purely vegetable) a real blessing to have on hand in this time of need. Keep your system clean all winter.

See your druggist at once. Your health—perhaps your very life—may depend upon taking this simple precaution. Costs but a few cents.

If you have had the flu or a bad cold already, watch out for a recurrence. A cupful of Tea twice a week is your protection against attacks. Adv.

Pioneer Days Most Interesting Period of Movies Says Former Screen Star, on Bill Here This Week

Clara Kimball Young, at Palace Theater, Discusses Trend of Pictures

BY EDNA S. DUTTON
Marion Star Staff Writer

WHERE do movie stars go when they leave the silver screen? Clara Kimball Young came to the Palace Sunday for a three-day engagement in vaudeville as a headliner. She's been in New York City for the holidays, seeing some shows, adding to her wardrobe and looking about a bit and arrived in Marion looking as bright and happy as the New Year itself.

Miss Young is no stranger to Marion show patrons, who will remember her in "My Official Wife," which was the feature picture shown at the opening of the Marion theater, and was also her first feature picture, as well. Marion also has a warm spot in Miss Young's heart, for her father, an old showman, played here in 1880 with Jay Rial's "Humpty Dumpty." Miss Young has always been at home on the stage, for her father's career dates back to the barnstorming days when he was one of the founders of the Ringling Brothers circus and her mother was a professional on the legitimate stage. The actress herself had her early training before the footlights prior to facing the movie camera in 1912.

Days of Experiments

Miss Young refers to her entrance into the movies as pioneer days when everything was an experiment and everybody was on the lookout for new ideas, from the director down to the props. And all had a chance to express their ideas and have a tryout, she declares.

CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG

It's all so different now, they don't really impersonate life, the actress thinks.

"Personalities are so cut and dried, it isn't really acting," she says. There was more sincerity, more interest in the motion picture work in the early days because it was all so new, Miss Young believes. "We were pioneers, blazing a trail, working to achieve something; now there seems to be nothing to learn."

Dubious About Talkies

Miss Young prefers the silent drama to the talkies.

"If anything is to be accomplished with them it will take a long time," she says. "Talkies will mean learning to read lines intelligently, not just repeating stilted phrases, while voices will mean practically everything in making or breaking the project."

She cited Al Jolson and Conrad Nagel as the only two persons whose voices have really registered in the talkies. It's something, she believes, to keep big producers awake nights, and while they are balancing with no small amount of uncertainty on the fence, the little fellow is going ahead and getting out his pictures and bringing home the bacon.

"I don't believe the talkies will push the legitimate show off the stage; it will bring us back to our individual art which has really never been lost," she declared.

Why She Bobbed It

"I couldn't get a hat to fit," was the actress' response to the inquiry as to why she parted from her crowning glory. And here's something else, she must have found that which led Ponce de Leon on a long and perilous jaunt, for between us sisters, her dressing-room complexion is without mar or blemish and she hasn't even a laugh wrinkle.

Miss Young likes to read, embroider, visit places of interest in cities in which she plays and between times she takes care of little details such as making out her income tax. She has a lot of things planned for the future, among them a study course in Russian economics, a tour of foreign countries and she may make another picture.

Oh, for the life of a movie star.

IMMEDIATE APPROVAL OF TREATY IS SEEN

Two Warring Factions Take Hint from Treaty; Agree To Arbitrate

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8—Invoking arbitration as a substitute for their usual parliamentary warfare, administration leaders and the irreconcilables appeared today to have reached an agreement in the senate for immediate and unconditional ratification of the Kellogg-Briand anti-war treaty.

The two warring factions took a hint from the treaty itself and decided to arbitrate their difference. The outcome was an agreement to have a report filed with the senate from the foreign relations committee, setting forth the American terms of adherence. This report will embody the very terms which the irreconcilables fought to have approved in their "resolution of explanation."

BANNER YEAR SHOWN IN REPORTS OF BANK

West Side Institution Registers Gain; Directors Named for 1929

Directors for the coming year were named at the annual meeting of stockholders of the West Side Banking Co. held yesterday afternoon at the bank.

Reports for the past year showed the bank to be in thriving condition. It was a banner year in the history of the bank and business registered a gain over the previous year, it was reported.

Officers for 1929 were not named due to the fact that six members of the board of directors were confined to their homes by illness. The officers will be named at a special meeting of the directors Friday, Jan. 11, at the bank.

Directors named for 1929 are: George T. Geran, M. A. Virden, J. M. Barringer, Carl F. Worley, Frank T. Campbell, Phillip Firstenberger, J. W. Hecker, James E. Messenger, H. W. Cookton, William P. Kelley, and John K. Peters.

Lace-making was invented in the year 1561, at St. Annaberg, in Saxony, by Barbara Uttmann. The first establishment of lace manufacture in England is said to be due to some refugees from Flanders, who settled in the village of Cranfield, in the west of the county of Bedford, adjoining Buckinghamshire.

SCHEDULE CHANGE

Maag Bros. Announce New Plan for Northbound Buses

The Maag Brothers Transit Co. has eliminated a trip from its northbound schedule, Ray Maag, manager of the company, announced today.

The north-bound bus which has Marion and Findlay as its terminals, formerly ran on the following schedule; leave Marion at 7, 9 and 11 o'clock in the morning and at 1, 3, and 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

Effective yesterday the buses start north at 7 o'clock with other trips at 9:10, 12:10, 2:10 and 5:10. This new schedule eliminates the old 11 o'clock bus and starts the other buses 10 minutes later.

There was no reason given for the change except that it provides a noon bus which is usually one of the busiest of the day.

"One-two-three!"

The first to "take the count" was Morris Huhn. A kind Rotarian next to Huhn struck a match and lighted the lighter in a vain attempt to keep him in the race.

Down they went—by ones and twos.

While Brown evidently was attempting to show the superiority of his lighter by twirling the flint, he was unable to come through to a championship. Don Howard and Murray Powers both stayed with him to the limit and the contest was called a tie.

In a paper on "Vocational Service" read following the business session Powers, managing editor of The Star, gave his views on how a luncheon club might be of service to both itself and its community.

He also cited the importance of vocational service to Rotary and praised the local Junior Chamber of Commerce for its activity in behalf of the city.

SEES UTILITY STOCKS LEADING 1929 MART

Smithers Bases Prediction on Enormous Expansion in Enterprises

(Copyright, 1928, by International News Service)

NEW YORK, Jan. 8—What group of stocks is best suited to lead the upward movement in the market in 1929?

The motor shares had their day in 1927 and 1928; the chain store and airplane stocks, skimmed close to the clouds last year, the coppers and oils breaking into the headlines in the final quarter of the year. Wherein lies the best opportunity for safe investment and conservative profit in 1929?

"The public utility stocks will take the lead in the upward movement this year," said Herbert B. Smithers, partner and head of the stock sales department of Eastman, Dillon & Co., to International News Service today. Smithers bases his forecast upon the enormous expansion in public utility enterprises that will naturally follow the electrification of the railroads and other consumers of power; the expanding use of electric light in American homes; and the harnessing up of big natural developments like waterfalls, etc., to supply cheaper power to the prominent lighting and power companies in the centers of population.

Assured of Income

"Unlike the railroads, which are still fighting for the right to earn a fair return upon their investments, the public utility companies have been assured by the highest court in the land an equitable income on their actual investment, as well as a reasonable residue for enlargement of their facilities and the replacement of worn-out machinery," said Smithers. For this reason he declared, the utility companies were in a position to maintain a proper balance between stocks and bonds in their capital structures.

"The enormous growth of American industrial enterprise in recent years had broadened the market for the power as supplied by the utility companies," said Smithers. "Bankers, moneyed interests and industrial heads are looking with greater favor upon the well-developed utility concerns, most of which need only capital to render them capable of supplying larger and larger quantities of hydro and electric power. It is not necessary to develop new agencies for the purpose, since most of the well known power companies are in a position to add directly to their producing facilities through the addition of new units of expansion of their plants.

"Customer ownership has become such an important factor in public utility service that there is a growing tendency to exploit the power, water and lighting companies for the benefit of consumers and stockholders."

CUPID WINS RACE BUT LOSES MATCH

Couple Decides To Obey Mandate of Youth's Father After Eluding Police

COLUMBUS, Jan. 8—Though outdistancing his pursuers in an automobile race from Springfield, Mass., to this city, Dan Cupid today had lost in the gruelling marathon, as the marriage of Curtis French, 20, Springfield, Mass., to Miss Elizabeth Colgan, society girl here, was halted when they reached this city.

W. E. French, prominent Springfield man and father of the reported runaway youth, had objected to the marriage specifying that his son complete a college course before taking on matrimony.

French's objection was not the only one raised. His son also objected—to waiting. After a reported argument, with his father, the youth and Miss Colgan started here in an auto. The father followed, but the two young people, dodging Albany and Syracuse police, who had been notified of the "runaways", outdistanced the elder man.

In Albany, the parent gave up the race and returned to Springfield. When the couple reached here they went to the home of the girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Colgan.

Here they were pursuaded to obey the mandate set down by French's father. Colgan sent a telegram to the elder French, and French is reported speeding to this city today with his reported parental anger somewhat subsided.

Just three of four applications cleared my skin wonderfully." Sulphur is a remarkable thing for clearing the skin, and as sulphur clears it, menthol heals the sore, broken tissue. EN ROUTE TO NEW YORK—Survived a day of Kansas changing. The dozgone train bee-lines across that State for some 700 miles or so. Hit Chicago on a cold, cold day. Us Coasters shiver and squeal over Arctic weather. A sardine can survive thermometer sprliness much better than we.

New York tomorrow morn. Lawd, the country one traverses en route from the Coast. Give an optic and paragraph hop through California, Arizona, New Mexico, Colorado, Kansas, Missouri, Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, New York. Um, 3,000 miles of states.

Belle Bennett is a relaxed traveller. But then a train is memory re-lived to Belle. Her dad headed a small circus when she was a girl and when she wasn't doing her stuff under the Big Top she lived in a train. Did you know that Belle used to swing fancy capers on a trapeze, perform atop a galloping steed, bark in front of sideshows, for her dad? She did. One scarcely associates Stella Dallas and the encaster of mother roles with such a life. Belle has come on to add talky sequences to several of her Tiffany Stahl flickers.

Duck hunting is a great sport among flickerities who like their guns loaded. Hoot Gibson has a yen for the feathery fliers. I understand he and Ruth Elder recently braved another expedition with friends into those remote spots frequented by the uncivilized quarkers. Fred Windermere—Belle Bennett's director husband—laments that coming East this time of the year puts the kibosh on his duck shooting. Grant Withers—Claire Windsor's current swain—is preparing for another ducky excursion.

Flicker-goers surely remember the pioneer of western stars—Broncho Billy, otherwise known as G. M. Anderson. Time was when G. M. couldn't take a stroll without being mobbed by enthusiastic admirers. When Broncho Billy pulled freight from the old Essanay company he trailed to San Francisco and proceeded to lose his bankroll in starring shows that flopped into the histrionic morgue. In due course Anderson filed bankruptcy. He became reconciled with his wife, however, and together they have gained some sort of financial equilibrium. They still live in San Francisco.

Marceline Day—she who was once reported engaged to Richard Dix—rushed to the Montmartre to keep a luncheon date. She was late, so she didn't bother to take off the bright makeup used in that morn's technicolor screen test. Instead, she hid behind a pair of dark glasses. A movie fan spotted her entering the restaurant. "She orta be in pictures," shrewdly. "She's wearing a fur coat."

KONJOLA ENDS 8 YEAR SEARCH FOR REAL REMEDY

Stomach and Kidney Troubles Had Long Defied Every Other Medicine and Treatment Tried

MR. PETER KANOS

"The first and only medicine that touched my case, and I tried everything for years!" So exclaim many who find in Konjola, the new medicine, the answer to the eternal question of those who suffer: "What can I find to make me well again?"

Konjola is a medicine of results, success, triumphs. It conquers disease simply by going to the source of the trouble, and removing the causes. Take the case of Mr. Peter Kanos, 1732 East Thirty-Fourth street, Lorain, Ohio, as one of thousands of proofs of this.

"For eight painful years I sought for something to relieve my stomach and kidney troubles. Nothing but failure resulted. Indigestion, terrible headaches, dizzy spells, kidney pains and sleepless nights were among my afflictions. Constipation was another. I was worn out and tired out, discouraged over my failures to find relief. The wonderful things I read about Konjola's achievements induced me to give this amazing medicine a trial. I took just four bottles and every last one of my troubles vanished. I eat anything I want, sleep soundly all through the night, and my weight, strength and vitality is almost back to normal. I wish I could broadcast my experience with Konjola so that everyone who suffers can hear and profit by it."

Konjola is different than any other known remedy in this section. It contains 22 juices extracted from natural plants which invigorate the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels to a more healthy action. The effect of this Konjola on the entire system brings amazing relief in cases of suffering that has been going on for years. At the same time, many weak and run-down systems have been restored to a new state of health through this compound. Such a vast number of men and women in this city have told of their experience with this new medical compound, until now, Konjola is the most highly indorsed medicine that is known in this section.

Konjola is sold in Marion at Stump & Sams Pharmacy and by all the best druggists throughout this section.—Adv.

NORMA SHEARER in "A Lady of Chance," with Lowell Sherman, John Mack Brown and Gwen Lee. Vaudeville program. Clara Kimball Young in "Words and Music." DeKos Brothers, acrobatic novelty, and Irving and Chaney in song and dance. Through Wednesday at the Palace.

• • •

NORMA SHEARER makes it easy on the victim's eyes when she starts gold digging in a polite way in "A Lady of Chance." Under the eagle eye of the law she decides to go straight and after bidding the evil imps to get behind her and stay there she gets a job as telephone operator. She starts slipping but before landing is recognized by two of her former playmates in the "racket" game, and the trio puts over another job. She flirts to Atlantic City where the big cement men are holding a convention, and after a whirlwind courtship finds herself the wife of a manufacturer from the south.

In the next two or three hundred feet the picture takes a turn that one doesn't expect and upsets the cut and dried ending that one might have outlined for themselves. The cast is splendid throughout and the story entertainingly portrayed.

• • •

CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG, the lady herself entertains with a varied and versatile program. First she sings a little song, hands herself one after that's over chats awhile over the footlights and then gives a dramatic impersonation from a Chinese play in which she starred. Despite all opinions differing, we think she can act.

• • •

THE DeKos boys do some clever things in balancing and tumbling and present some new stunts in this line.

• • •

IRVING and Chaney do some eccentric dances which are well presented and help fill an entertaining bill.

Morrow County Man's Hobby Develops World's Largest Black Raccoon Farm

L. S. Russell, Sportsman, Has Interesting Collection on Farm Near Cardington

(BY BOB BYRD)

MT GILEAD Jan 8—In a Morrow county man goes the distinction of owning the largest black raccoon farm in the world

Twenty years ago L S Russell, of Cardington, decided as a hobby that he would like to raise black coons He captured one in a small forest near his home secured a mate for it and today orders for them come from all countries of the world among them one for four pairs which reached him from Germany via the Graf Zeppelin He receives $500 for each pair, the standard price

Mr Russell who is an ardent sportsman is also the owner of the Cardington trapshooting grounds located opposite his farm on the south east road from Cardington He also includes in his hobbie the breeding and training of coon dogs and has recently added to his work the raising of skunk rabbits and martens An interesting feature of his farm is the outdoor aquarium in which he breeds fish He allows no fishing at any time and as a result the fish have grown quite tame and will follow Mr Russell or strangers for that matter around the the immature lake waiting for crumbs of food But it is the black coons in which Mr Russell is most intensely interested and to them he devotes most of his time

Sell for $500

Black raccoons are a freak of nature and specimens are found under conditions similar to those of the silver fox a freak of animals and very uncommon By saving only the best and jet black animals Mr Russell has produced the only pure strain of black raccoon in the United States

The animals he sells are usually for breeding purposes and are purchased by breeders of all countries Seventeen years of careful study and of breeding only the best and purest strains have produced hundreds of raccons for Mr Russell The largest number he ever had at one time in his pens was 200

The oldest raccoon on the farm is 18 years of age and is not one of the original pair Although the coons are usually of a quiet disposition they are moody at times and do not make the most satisfactory pets

I secure best results by feeding them whole wheat and cornmeal, stated Mr Russell It is a satisfactory diet and not very expensive

Fasts in Winter

A breeder may well take pride in raising this animal because of its cleanliness the owner of the farm pointed out The coons often wash their food before eating it and are very neat about their pens They are not timid and will accept food from a stranger running their hand like paws over the offered morsel rather than treat their bright beady eyes

The raccoon owes its adaptability to this climate to its ability to fast during the coldest winter months The raccoon usually eats enough to make it very fat in the early fall and will not require food during the winter months although those used for breeding are supplied with a small amount of food All the water the animal requires is for drinking although they are great swimmers There are not a sufficient number of the black variety on the market at the present time to make them a common sight but the number is steadily increasing due to the large number of animal breeders interested

Many Visitors

Seldom a day passes but what several automobile loads of visitors stop at the farm to inspect the orderly and well kept pens and offer peanuts and other delicacies to the black 'coons There is always some one there to answer any possible questions and visitors are always welcome Mr Russell hims If will gladly impart any information on breeding or raising any animals He warns any one interested that the dark pelted coon will not breed black litters but that the jet black strain is necessary to breed black coon

PICKING WINNERS

IT happens to be the privilege of a sports writer to voice his predictions in print concerning the outcome of various events in the athletic world. The weather man makes prediction concerning the weather. If he is successful little is said. If he fails them then the wrath of the people is heaped upon his shoulders. So with the sports editor.

In Monday's edition of The Star the writer had occasion to pick Mansfield to win over Harding high when the two teams meet on the basketball court Friday night in what will be both aggregations' first league game of the season. The prediction was made after a survey of the past records of the two teams was made.

Fortunately teams have a habit of ignoring a writer's "advance" dope and under those circumstances a so-called upset occurs. There is no basis whatever on which the outcome of games can be predicted. That, more than anything else, makes amateur sports more interesting to fans.

* * *

NEVER FOLLOW DOPE

IN games played in the past several years, neither Harding nor Mansfield seldom follow the dope sheet. One year Harding will enter the game a heavy favorite to win only to be nosed out by one or two points. That was the case last season. Other years the reverse was true and Mansfield was knocked off.

A representative of The Star, after witnessing Mansfield's defeat of Canton McKinley, said that Coach Murphy's team was at least 10 points better than Marion. That's the lowdown on the way Friday's game should come out.

Leaving the usual line of reasoning, Harding always plays one of its best games when it sticks up against a team heavy favorites with the fans. The writer believes that such will be the case at Mansfield. Harding will enter the game as the under dog but, although it may lose, it will not be a one-sided score by any means.

It would be easy at this time to say that the winner of the game will hold the pennant when the league season closes.

COMPLETING play in the first round of the Industrial basketball league, the Osgood five last night continued to stand out as the most powerful aggregation with a record of five victories and no defeats.

At the end of the first five games every team occupies its own berth in the standings, not a single tie existing. Only one team, the Power Hocking, has failed to win in the first round. Bohannan-Excavator has won but one contest.

Osgood's almost impregnable defense was too much for the highly touted Steam Shovel quintet, the league leaders winning 11 to 5. The Shovels were held scoreless in the last half.

Peary was the stellar performer for the victors chalking up a total of five points from two buckets and a free throw. Lusbey counted three points. Ward and Gillis each scored a basket for the losers. Lingo scored the other point on a free throw.

While the Shovels were taking a neat defeat from Osgood, the C. D. & M. Kappa quintet was staging close to first place by taking the measure of the Power-Hocking five, 36 to 15. As a result of the victory the Electrics are in second place one game behind Osgood. The Shovel dropped to third place.

Scoring honors for the Electrics were well divided. Geissler led with three buckets and a free throw while Yazel, Titsworth and Applegett each counted six points. Wainfor scored seven points for the losers.

The College-Malleable tossers were too fast for the Bohannan-Excavators winning by a 27 to 14 score. The victory gave the Collegians a clear title to fourth place in the standings. With 11 points to his credit, W. Merchant sent the College five home to victory. Johnson scored 10 points for the losers.

'JACK DEMPSEY TO COME BACK'

Death Brings to an End Tex Rickard's Plans for Greatest Announcement in Career; Story, Written by Promoter, Slated for Release Friday

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

NEW YORK, Jan. 6—The ghostly voice of the dead spoke today and, even while all that was mortal of Tex Rickard was being transported to New York for burial, the promoter was giving, by predated announcement, his valedictory to boxing and to the world. Stripped of all superfluities, his last message to the public was this:

"Jack Dempsey is coming back!"

With a relish that seems almost pathetic now, Rickard prepared his announcement of Dempsey's return for the February issue of the Ring and arranged for the distribution of these tidings over a countrywide area 10 days in advance of their release, which originally was scheduled for Friday. He was as pleased as a child with a new toy as he made a few revisions in the proofs of the story less than an hour before he entrained for the holiday that culminated in illness and then death.

Was To Sign Jan. 27

He was going to make a pageant of this great event, this promise of his friend and idol to fight again that the heavyweight championship might again become a thing of real significance. He would run a special train to Miami Beach for the official signing, tentatively set for Jan. 27. He would make a fiesta of this ceremony to show that he, of all the men in the world, had this day attained a triumph that would abide through the years. Dempsey was going to fight again!

But will he? He certainly had every intention of so doing until that hushed hour on Sunday morning when the flame of one mortal life winked, fluttered weakly and went out. Dempsey will not sign with Rickard now. For Rickard is dead and, with his passing, went one of Dempsey's motivating forces for the gesture he was to make. That force was his loyalty to the promoter.

Big Money Offered

Another force, of necessity, was money. Dempsey is only human, like the rest of us, and money is our counsellor. In the words of one of Rickard's closest friends, Dempsey was "offered money that would make any man come back."

A third force was the type of man he was to meet next summer in a final bout for the heavyweight championship. That man would have qualified in two matches, one involving Sharkey and Stribling at Miami Beach on Feb. 27, and another between Paulino and Heeney later in the season, with the survivors of the two fights to meet in June. It is no star chamber secret that Dempsey feels he has a chance with any of the four mentioned.

Personally, I don't see how Dempsey can fail to fight now, regardless of what he may be saying in his impulsive way. He has promised Rickard that he will fight and I think he may find that such a promise sometimes can be more binding than chains of steel.

"I want to let the readers of The Ring' is on a little secret. Jack Dempsey will come back this year."

Took Great Delight

Can Dempsey ignore the appealing delight with which Rickard was inspired as he sat down to pen these last words on earth?

"One cannot think of Dempsey except in terms of greatness—he is greater than any fighter now basking in the limelight—he came within an ace of regaining the championship in Chicago and, although he lost the verdict, there are thousands of fight fans throughout the world who feel that Jack Dempsey is the uncrowned world's heavyweight champion."

Those are a few excerpts from Rickard's eulogy to the man who, to him, was more than king. Here are a few more:

"The return of Dempsey will cause the public to accept the appointment of a successor to Tunney as a genuine champion...Dempsey will fight only once and that one battle will be for me and it will decide the holder of the crown...He is the former champion and, as such, he is entitled to more consideration than Sharkey, Stribling, Paulino, Heeney, Risko and the rest of the field...It is my plan to send Jack Dempsey against the winner of my heavyweight elimination tournament...this final bout will take place either in August or September, preferably the latter, all depending on how long Dempsey will require to get in trim...but Dempsey is coming back to fight for Tex Rickard, to give to the heavyweight class the punch it now lacks."

In the light of what has happened, the document breathes with emotion. Dempsey! Dempsey! Dempsey! Exultantly, the refrain pulses onward through this message, Rickard's last, it fairly shouts aloud its hero worship, and glories in it.

I have said that Dempsey is only a human being, after all. He will be less than that if he reads this message from his lead friend and remains unmoved.

YALE TO BREAK OLD RULE FOR CHICAGO

Will Honor Stagg in Contest Scheduled for Oct. 17, 1931

CHICAGO, Jan. 6 — Yale university will depart from its established custom of not playing football games on any foreign fields except those of Harvard and Princeton to come to Chicago to meet the University of Chicago football team on Stagg Field October 17, 1931. That season will be Coach A. A. Stagg's fortieth year as coach and athletic director at Chicago.

A desire to honor Stagg, director of athletics at the University of Chicago, who was a student in the late 80s was one of Yale's greatest athletes, was the chief factor in the decision of Yale authorities to deviate from their regular policy, according to the letter written to Stagg by George H. Nettleton, chairman of the Yale University Athletic association.

Proposal Approved

"I am glad to inform you that the board of control of the Yale University Athletic Association has approved the proposal made through representatives of the Yale club, of Chicago, for a game between the University of Chicago and Yale football teams to be played at Chicago in 1931," Nettleton's letter said. "Our board, which counts in its membership President Angell, naturally recognizes with especial satisfaction the close connections, academic and personal, between Chicago and Yale which were inaugurated with President Harper and which have since been maintained and continued.

"It recognizes also the widespread desire of Yale graduates living in or near Chicago both for the proposed game itself and for the commemoration thereby, in 1931, of the fortieth anniversary of your first connection with the athletic interests of Chicago. Our board recognizes that your significant service to the best interests of college athletics is national rather than local in its influence, and the college of which you are a graduate is especially glad to share in honoring your name and work. The exceptional circumstances of the proposed game have thus led our board to give it consideration which is exceptional in view of our regular policy and practice.

Nation Wide Gathering

The game, it is planned, will be the central feature of a nation-wide gathering of Yale alumni in Chicago.

In the last quarter of a century, except for the one trip either to Harvard or Princeton, it has been Yale's policy to play no games away from its own stadium. An exception was made two years ago when Yale dedicated the new Brown stadium, and a trip to dedicate the Georgia stadium next season has also been approved.

This is the second time that a member of the "Big Three" has made its only western appearance at Chicago for a game in 1921, following a Maroon game at Princeton in 1920. That series will be renewed during the coming season, when Chicago plays at Princeton, the Tigers coming to Stagg Field in 1930.

LAST NIGHT'S FIGHTS

CHICAGO, Jan. 6—Whatever dreams Northwestern university may have had for winning the Big Ten basketball championship were in fact only dreams today following the Wildcat's encounter with Ohio State's quintet at Evanston last night. The Buckeyes won by the score of 31 to 28.

It was Northwestern's second defeat of the season, having tossed off their opening game last Saturday night to Michigan.

In the only other conference game played last night, Michigan defeated the tough Wisconsin five at Madison, 31 to 23.

CHURCH LEAGUES TO RESUME GAMES AT Y. M. C. A. TONIGHT

Central Christians and Epworth Will Play in First Contest

BY BOB ELLIOTT
Sports Staff, The Star

AFTER a two weeks layoff during the Christmas and New Year holidays, the Senior and Intermediate Sunday School leagues will swing into action again tonight at the Y. M. C. A.

In the Senior loop, Trinity Baptist and United Brethren mix up in what looks to be the "natural" of the evening. This game is the second of the night and will get under way at 8 o'clock. Both teams won their first games with little difficulty, the U. B.'s sinking Epworth in the first game of the league and the Baptists defeating Calvary a rather conclusive setback. If the Baptists present a team at full strength they look a little better on paper than the Prospect outfit.

Central Christian and Epworth meet in the first game starting at 7 o'clock. There is plenty of room for an upset the dope bucket in this contest although the Christians look to be a little better five according to first half games.

Waldo Lutherans and Calvary will finish up the night's festivities starting at 9:30. Waldo should take this one with little trouble. Calvary hopes to show anything sensational in the first game. Waldo looked good in losing to the Christian quint by a 25. Strine, the Waldo pivot man, will bear watching by the Calvary team.

In the Intermediate games starting at 7:00, the Baptists tangle with the Presbyterians, Central Christians meet Greenwood Evangelical, and Calvary and Epworth will mix things up in the grand finale. Epworth looked to be the class of the league in first round matches.

SPRINTS AWAY

Prisoner Works Ruse on Deputy Marshals to Make Getaway

MARIETTA, Jan. 8—Authorities of three states are searching today for Pat O'Hare, under indictment for auto stealing in Ohio, West Virginia and Pennsylvania, who escaped from deputy U. S. marshals who were taking him from Columbus to Parkersburg, W. Va., for trial.

According to federal authorities, O'Hare was arrested at Akron last November after he had been at liberty for nearly a year following an escape from police at Youngstown. O'Hare made his escape by successfully working a ruse on the marshals to persuade him to leave the car while it was parked on a road surrounded by dense wood. The deputy who accompanied O'Hara from the car left his weapon and O'Hare proved to be the best sprinter.

TODAY'S REVIEW OF YESTERDAY'S GRAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 8—Local wheat prices rallied yesterday, reacting from the almost steady decline of the past 10 days. The market had a firm tone, reflecting the general moderate rally in all of the principal world markets

Short covering, commission house buying and purchases credited to Northwest and foreign accounts led to the early upturn in the local market. Later there was a further advance on the closing of spreads between wheat and corn

Corn was also firm and higher in the early trading, but selling against the offers and to close spreads with wheat had a depressing influence. Prices eased to slightly below Saturday's finish Bullish export and Argentine crop news were factors on which corn buying was based.

Winnipeg Closes Higher

Wheat prices were ⅞@1c higher at the close. Corn was ⅛@¼c lower, while oats were steady to ⅛c higher, and rye was ½@1c up. Winnipeg wheat futures finished 1½@1⅝c higher.

Despite the decline in North American wheat markets Saturday, Liverpool opened firm to a shade higher and at the close was ⅜@½d higher. There the strength was due, according to cables, to lighter Argentine offerings, a better demand for Canadian wheat and bullish weekly world figures.

The latter showed that while world's shipments were very large at 20 310,000 bu, on passage stocks decreased 1,224,000 bu. This indicated a disappearance for the week of 21,500,000 bu. On top of this, Russells figured world disappearance of wheat since July 1 at 416,828,000 bu, against 385,650,000 bu a year ago, making a consumption of 69,000,000 bu more in the past six months than in the corresponding period a year ago.

Large Corn Receipts

Higher prices for corn in the early trading were attractive to traders closing spreads with wheat, and the situation was not helped by fairly large arrivals. Country offerings continued light, but the larger receipts had a slightly depressing effect on spot prices Export news continued very conflicting, with reports of good demand from some sources and from others advices of resellers' offers and a quieter demand.

Cables from Argentina stressed the deficiency of moisture, but while it was said that the crop was deteriorating good rains received shortly would recondition the crop and assure a good yield with only minor losses.

Changes in the United States visible supply were: Wheat, decreased 652,000 bu; corn, increased 1,707,000 bu; oats, decreased, 500,000 bu; rye, increased 122 000 bu, and barley, increased 293,000 bu.

Local cash prices ruled as follows: Wheat, unchanged to ½c higher; corn, unchanged to 1c lower; oats, unchanged; rye, ¾c higher, and barley, unchanged.

Stubborn Cough Quickly Ended by Famous Recipe

Here is the famous old recipe which millions of housewives have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up a stubborn, lingering cough. It takes but a moment to prepare and costs little, but it gives real relief even for those dreaded coughs that usually follow the "flu."

From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. Thus you make a full pint of better remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times the cost. It never spoils and tastes so good that even children like it.

Not only does this simple mixture soothe and heal the inflamed throat membranes with surprising ease, but also it is absorbed into the blood, and acts directly upon the bronchial tubes, thus aiding the whole system in throwing off the cough. It loosens the germladen phlegm and eases chest soreness in a way that is really astonishing.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form. Nothing known in medicine is more helpful in cases of distressing coughs, chest colds, and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

Giant Question Mark Forced to Land After More Than 150 Hours in Air; Glides to Safe Landing

Men Appear in Good Physical Condition After Long Grind

FLY 10,550 MILES

Enthusiasts Speculate on What Official Records Will Be Allowed

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 8—Aviation enthusiasts were speculating today on just what official records would be allowed the army plane Question Mark following her epic endurance test which terminated late yesterday after more than 150 hours of continuous flying

The giant brown and gold plane was forced to give up the monotonous grind of nearly seven days after one of her three motors went "cold" and another began to sputter. It glided to a safe landing, touching Metropolitan air field at 2:07 p m after being in the air 150 hours, 40 minutes and 15 seconds

The crew of five men smiled triumphantly. They appeared to be in good physical condition, though tired and half deaf from the roar of the motors

Although the Question Mark unofficially has wiped every endurance mark for all type of aircraft from the skies, it was pointed out that the record flight of 65 hours and 25 minutes, established by two Germans without refueling, probably would stand unimpaired in the official records

The Question Mark remained aloft more than twice as long, but did so by refueling in the air. The former refueling record of 60 hours and seven minutes, held by two Belgians, of course yielded to the sensational feat of the army plane.

The Question Mark rolled up the stupendous estimated total of 10,550 miles in her famous six-and-a-half-day cruise Only part of this mileage, however, will be taken into official consideration, since the great army plane was forced to fly in circles for long periods instead of traveling from point to point in straight flights.

The five authors of the latest chapter of aviation pioneering are Maj Carl Spatz, commander; Capt Ira C Eaker, chief pilot, Lieuts. Harry A Halverson and Eldwood R Quesada and Sergt Roy Houe.

The five members of the Question Mark's crew above are the unchallenged kings of endurance flight. After exceeding by a wide margin best previous record of heavier-than-air craft, they remained in air for more than 150 hours. Left to right, Major Spatz, Captain Eaker, Lieut. Halverson, Lieut. Quesada and Sergeant Houe.
